WEATHER.

U. S. Department of Agriculture,
Weather Bureau,
Toledo, O., Sept. 21, 1892.

The area of high barometric pressure covers the eastern portion of the country and will cause the weather to remain fair over that section during the next 24 hours.

The low area storm which was central over Montana has increased in energy and magnitude, and is central over North Dakota. It is moving slowly eastward, and will pass over the lake region to-morrow, causing rain and high winds.

Generally fair weather has prevailed in nearly all parts of the country, the rainfall has been light and widely scattered.

The temperature over the northern half of the country from the Rocky mountains, eastward to the Atlantic coast has risen from 5 to 10 degrees, and it will continue to rise. Over the west, and northwest, it has fallen from 5 to 10 degrees, and will continue to fall. In all other sections it has remained about stationary.

Forecast for Toledo and vicinity on Wednesday, fair, slightly warmer. On Thursday, rain, slight change in temperature.

E. A. HANNER,
Observer.

Forecast for Ohio—Occasional rain; southeasterly winds.

For Indiana and Illinois—Fair, except probable showers in northwestern Illinois to-night; brisk southeasterly winds; cooler by Friday.

For Michigan—Showers Thursday; winds becoming southeasterly, warmer Thursday morning; cooler by Friday.

Worn-out, "run-down," feeble women, need Dr. Pierce's Favorite Prescription. It builds them up. It's a powerful, restorative tonic, or strength-giver—free from alcohol and injurious drugs. The entire system is renewed and invigorated. It improves digestion, enriches the blood, dispels aches and pains, gives refreshing sleep, and restores flesh and strength. As a soothing nervine, it allays and subdues hysteria, spasms, and all the nervous symptoms commonly attendant upon functional and organic disease. It's the only guaranteed medicine for women. It does what is promised—or it asks nothing. It gives satisfaction, in every case, or the money paid for it is refunded. No other medicine for women is sold on such terms.

That's the way its makers prove their faith in it. Contains no alcohol to inebriate; no syrup or sugar to derange digestion; a legitimate medicine not a beverage. Purely vegetable and perfectly harmless in any condition of the system.

THE GRAND ARMY

Gen. Palmer's Annual Address Delivered.

He Reviews the Work of the Past Year.

The "House of Lords" Agitating the Delegates.

A National Flower to be Discussed.

Routine Work of the Boys in Blue Who Have Gathered to Talk Over the Affairs of the Late War.

Washington, Sept. 21.—To-day there was something of a lull in the excitement caused by the reunion of the G. A. R. At 10 o'clock this morning the annual business meeting was called to order. The time was largely taken up with commemorative exercises and the reports of the national officers.

The contest for the position of commander-in-chief promises to be a lively one. California's favorite son, Col. R. H. Warfield, has made the strongest canvass, and it looks at present as though he would be chosen. He is a New York veteran, having enlisted in a Rochester regiment. He has served as department commander of California, and his efforts at the Portland encampment secured to San Francisco the encampment of the following year.

This afternoon a concert was given on the capitol grounds by the largest band ever heard, it being composed of the visiting marine bands, numbering in their aggregate membership over a thousand musicians.

The members of the Fourth New York Volunteers, the well-known Scott Life Guards, left here last night and early this morning for Antietam, where they have erected a monument. The battlefield of Antietam is singularly destitute of memorials, the one to be dedicated by the boys of the Fourth New York being only the third that has been erected. It is situated in the rear of the New York section of the national cemetery, is about eleven feet high and built of light granite with appropriate inscriptions on all four sides. One of the plates contains the names of the thirty-six heroes who fell on the 17th of September, 1862. The Seventeenth Army corps held its reunion in Sherman tent, Grand Army place, this afternoon.

DOWN TO BUSINESS.

The Twenty-Sixth Annual Encampment Is In Session.

Washington, Sept. 21.—The 26th National Encampment, G. A. R., begun its session in Albaugh's opera house this morning.

Routine business will occupy most of the day's session. Gen. Palmer will read his report as commander-in-chief and the reports of various standing and special committees will be emade. The committee on pensions may offer a recommendation in regard to service pensions. Prominent G. A. R. men say the government is doing all that could be asked and that the time has not come for so generous an extension of the pension system.

The house of lords' matter will excite a most lively discussion when it comes to the front. According to the constitution of the G. A. R. the three highest officers of the national organization and the departmental commanders are entitled to life seats and to votes in the encampment. Under this rule 47 life members of the encampment are selected each year and this contingent has been swelled until it almost equals the body of delegates elected from the departments. There has been a sentiment growing in the G. A. R. of late against allowing the past commanders to vote in encampment. The department of Massachusetts has several times introduced a resolution against it. This year Ohio will start the movement. The last state encampment at Piqua instructed the delegates to this effect. Something of a skirmish between the two leading departments may ensue, as Pennsylvania is warmly in favor of the old order of things. This contest may have its effect on the campaign for commander-in-chief.

The color line question will again come up if present declared intentions are carried out, but Gen. Palmer will be sustained by an overwhelming vote.

An effort will be made by Comrade T. T. Swinburne to secure from the Grand Army encampment an endorsement for the Columbine as the national flower. He says in support of the suggestion:

"Its name comes from the same root as Columbia, it is an exact copy of the Payrgian liberty cap, the head-dress of Columbia, and the prototype of the Cornucopia, the symbol of Columbia's land; its botanical name is derived from the Latin for eagle, because its petals end in spurs resembling the talons of an eagle; its growth in red, white and blue, it has five trumpet-shaped petals corresponding to the five points of the star upon our flag and it is indigenous to the North American continent, a hardy perennial and wild flower that is found in every part of the land, growing even on the Rocky mountains."

Rain began to fall soon after 10 o'clock this morning, not heavily, but still in sufficient volume, accompanied as it was by a cool east wind, to put a temporary damper upon many projected features of the day.

The first incident of the day was the parade of the union veterans at 10 o'clock. About 1,500 veterans braved the elements, commanded by Gen. Green C. Smith. The parade formed on Pennsylvania avenue and Tenth street, and marched past the reviewing stand at the treasury department, where the veterans were reviewed by Vice President Morton, District Commissioner Ross and Commander-in-Chief Yoder and staff. The line then broke ranks and dispersed about the city.

The business feature of the day was the official meetings of the national encampment, which took place at Albaugh's opera house.

Commander-in-Chief Palmer was escorted to the place of meeting in the drizzling rain by the union veteran corps and the "old guard" of Washington.

At that time the streets were filled with a bedraggled crowd that in vain sought shelter under awnings and in doorways. Albaugh's theater was decorated with great profusion of material and artistic arrangement.

At 10:30 Adjutant-General Phisterer called the encampment to order, when there were less than 500 delegates in the house, and presented Mr. B. H. Warner, of the citizens' executive committee, who introduced Hon. J. D. Douglass, president of the District board of commissioners, who welcomed the encampment to Washington. Gen. Palmer replied.

THANKS.

Gen. Palmer Addresses the People of Washington.

Washington, Sept. 21.—Commander-in-Chief Palmer's reply to Commissioner Douglass, who received the delegates to the national encampment on behalf of the citiens of Washington, was as follows:

"Mr. Commissioner—In behalf of the representatives of the twenty-sixth national encampment of the Grand Army of the Republic I return to you and the citizens of Washington their heartfelt acknowledgements for your kind and hospitable welcome to your beautiful city, Columbia's capital.

"It is eminently appropriate that we should again meet in a city where, 27 years ago, at the close of that great civil conflict, the union armies marched in review before their gallant leaders, the grandest and most effective army the world had ever seen. In those days we marched to the grand music of war, wreathed with the garlands of victory.

"Yesterday the survivors of that grand Union army, which in 1865 were so replete with youthful vigor and manly strength, marched over the same ground, no longer with muskets on their shoulders and sabres by their sides, but keeping step to the silvery strains of peace, happy in the thought that the union had been cemented anew and citizens of all sections of our country look benignly upon our festivities and rejoice to see the stars and stripes floating supremely over a reunited people and a prosperous nation. To-day we have the representatives from 44 states; strong in themselves, they are the mightier because they speak for the half million veterans left at home.

"They voice the sentiments of the nation's defenders. When they laid aside the weapons of war they enlisted in the noble work of caring for the weak and feeble, alleviating the sorrows of the widows and orphans, and extending aid to those worthy comrades with whom they stood shoulder to shoulder in the field. For your kind words of welcome I know my comrades feel truly grateful. Time has wrought many changes.

"There is but a remnant left of that great army of '65. Thousands have since passed in review before the commander-in-chief of the universe, and how many, may I ask, will be left at the end of another decade? Many who donned the soldier garb in the full vigor of their manhood began to falter; the few that remain are growing old and feeble, and while time seems to be vanishing as a dream, there will soon come to us all that final reunion in the great hereafter.

"Many visit Washington for the first time since the close of the contest. Its progress and beauty is a wonder even in this wonderful age. All over this great nation my comrades have been looking forward to this occasion with anticipation of great pleasure, and I know from the zeal and interest displayed by your committee and the generosity of your citizens in providing for this event it will be a source of enjoyment to all who have attended and they will carry back to their respective homes the most pleasant and lasting remembrances of their visit to the capital of the nation.

"Your warm words of welcome make us feel already that we are at home amongst friends and comrades, and I hope our sojourn in your city will be such that our friends and comrades will feel proud of their acquaintance with the representatives of our order and that we may prove ourselves not only worthy of the compliment you have paid us, but still further commend and entitle us to the respect and approval of our fellow citizens.

"I know I shall hold this visit in cherished remembrance. This gathering today brings back vividly to our memories many of the sad scenes of the past; but we are not here to open up the closed wounds made in that great struggle. The union soldiers are the conservators of peace and the men who were bravest and bore the brunt of battle are among the first to promote a feeling of fraternity amongst all sections of our country.

"Reconciliation and forgiveness are as commendable in a good citizen as were heroism and valor in a good soldier, and we rejoice in the fact that to-day we are at peace with all nations. But should the stern necessities of war again require the services of the 'citiezn soldier'—God grant that time may never come—you would find the men of all sections of this great nation standing shoulder to shoulder in the ranks of their common country with such an army that the combined armies of other nations would find it difficult to penetrate, and a motto that is dear to the hearts of every American citizen, 'one country and one flag.'

"And now, Mr. Commissioner, permit me, in my own behalf, to thank you sincerely and warmly for this welcome to our order. I can offer you nothing in return except it be that which I now most cordially tender, a soldier's remembrance and his heartfelt gratitude."

GEN. PALMER.

His Annual Address Delivered to the Comrades.

Comrades: The national encampment of the Grand Army of the Republic brings together representative soldiers from all over the loyal land. There is scarcely a battlefield of that great civil contest but has representatives here today. Within its ranks are men of all political parties and religious creeds. The differences in rank which the army reflected are lost in the equalities of a free and common citizenship. The dominating thought is patriotism. Its principles appeal to patriots of every name and party. It is peculiarly befitting that we should meet once more in the beautiful capital city of the nation, where the representatives of 65,000,000 of freemen gather to enact our laws, and to look backward over the perils surmounted, and forward to the growing greatness of a redeemed land.

"As we look back over the long line of distinguished comrades whose patriotic devotion to their country and inspiring presence upon the battle fields, often times stimulated us to deeds of valor, but who no longer answer to 'roll call' in our encampments, we are forcibly reminded that death has been busy in our ranks; but the memory of their heroic achievements and manly virtues will live long after the Grand Army of the Republic ceases to exist. Let the example of their lives be an incentive to us all to so live and discharge our duties as citizens with that loyalty to country and fidelity to duty, so that when we shall have reached the end of life's journey and joined those gallant comrades whose lives were sacrificed to their country's liberty, future generations will read with wonder how two great armies contended for four long years, where nearly a million men on one side and the other, yielded up their lives in that great civil conflict, and when the contest ended, those great armies melted away like the snow on the hill-tops under beams of the noonday sun. Resuming the the peaceful vocations of civil life, the nation moved on once more in a career of unparalleled progress, prosperity and happiness, so that when our names shall be inscribed on the roll of the dead of the Grand Army of the Republic, we shall deserve to be remembered by those who survive the evergreens of a fond and enduring memory.

"During my official term I have visited 25 departments, responded to numerous invitations to reunions and public gatherings, requiring months of time and labor, traveling nearly 40,000 miles, and my only regret is that I was unable to meet with several departments, as they met on the same date, and the places of meeting were too far apart to reach them in time. And notwithstanding, I have given up nearly the entire year to the work of the order, I feel that my efforts have been but feeble to serve all my comrades and do justice to the great office.

"I will not trespass upon your patience by an attempt to enter into statistics. The report of the staff officers contain full and detailed statements, and I commend them to your careful perusal and consideration. I have been greatly aided in my efforts to serve you by efficient and generous support given me by members of my staff. In every department I have visited, it was gratifying to notice the interest and enthusiasm manifested by the comrades for the welfare of the order, and while the whitened locks and furrowed cheeks of many marked the advance of time, the lapse of years has not cooled their fervor for the flag or their determination to hold on high the standard of our order, and while we have sustained many losses by death and suspension, our greatest loss comes from delinquent reports; nevertheless, I take great pride in saying to you that the reports show an increase for the year."

Gen. Palmer then related the history of the trouble in the department of Mississippi and Louisiana, arising out of the refusal of that department to recognize posts Nos. 9 to 17, composed of colored veterans. Under the laws of the order the commander-in-chief was obliged to suspend in succession the department commander, the senior vice commander and the junior vice commander of that department. An attempt was made by the department to surrender its charter, but this failed owing to a lack of compliance with the proper requirements in such cases. Finally, on June 3, 1892, Post Commander A. S. Badger, was placed in command of the department, which was then reorganized and is now in a flourishing and prosperous condition. "The life of an organization," says the commander-in-chief, in concluding this portion of his report, "like the life of a man, may be prolonged in honor to the fullness of its time, or it may expire prematurely for want of proper guidance, by violence or internal disorders. So what appeared to be likely to bring about a complete dissolution of this department, was saved by a critical operation, and the dying patient's life was extended for future years of prosperity and usefulness."

Gen. Palmer then referred in terms of commendation to the Woman's Auxiliary association and the Sons of Veterans, which he declared deserved the cordial support of every member of the Grand Army of the Republic. He urged a continued observance of Memorial day. "Let it touch the rising generation," said he, "that the liberty and the government which were established and sustained at such terrible cost, should be yielded up by them, only when, like the men who wore the blue, they rest with honor in a soldier's grave; and should the men of future years be tempted to surrender the rights that were established upon so many battle fields by these men, or become cold or callous in their love of country and its institutions may the memory of the green mounds spread all over the land, covering the remains of the loyal boys in blue, who yielded up their lives with its hopes and peasures, for freedom and fatherland, hold them firmly to public virtue."

Regarding pensions Gen. Palmer says no additional legislation is asked, the efforts of the pension committee being devoted to correcting inequalities. The work of the Grant Monument association was reviewed, and the recommendation made that the national encampment ask department commanders to make an appeal to their respective posts for a contribution of 5 cents from each member, to create a fund to be sent to the quartermaster general, and through him to be turned over to the Grant Memorial association to be invested and the interest applied to the annual care of the cottage and grounds.

Among other recommendations made was one that the committee be continued whose duty it is to see that veterans have preference in government employ. It was also suggested that posts and departments be prohibited from making appeals for funds or for legislation on their own responsibility. The finances of the order were declared to be in good condition.

In concluding Gen. Palmer said: "As I lay down the trust so unanimously conferred upon me at Detroit, I desire to extend to members of my staff my grateful acknowledgements for the cordial support given me during my term of office. To them I am deeply indebted for that measure of success which marks the administration of the affairs committed to my charge, and I want to extend to all my comrades my heartfelt thanks for the kindness I have received at their hands everywhere. I have had but one object in view: to discharge the duties of the office with all the ability and fidelity God has given me. If I have succeeded in meeting your expectations, and have merited the confidence reposed in me, I shall feel amply rewarded for the year of time and energy I have devoted to your interests; and as I return to the ranks to mingle with you, my comrades, in the work that is still before us, it will be my ambition at all times to do my full share for the future progress and prosperity of our grand order."

GAS EXPLOSION.

The Pennington Residence in Tiffin Destroyed.

Mrs. Pennington Escapes Without Injury—The Building Injured.

Tiffin, O., Sept. 21.—(Special)—The residence of the late Robert G. Pennington was completely destroyed by a natural gas explosion this morning.

The house had filled with surface gas from a nearby well and when Mrs. Pennington struck a match there was a terrible explosion. The walls were badly shattered and the debris took fire, making the wreck complete. Mrs. Pennington and a servant named Ella O'Brien, miraculously escaped injury. The building was insured for $4,000. The explosion created great excitement in the city.

Later—The escape of Mrs. Pennington is little short of a miracle. When she struck a match to light the illuminating gas in her room about 7 o'clock this morning, the explosion occurred. The house is a large one of the old-fashioned massive style. Every window and door was blown out and the walls seamed and cracked. Had it not been for their extreme solidity they would have come tumbling down about her ears. The roof was partly blown off and some of the debris carried nearly a quarter of a mile.

Neighbors immediately rushed in and found Mrs. Pennington in her room, dazed but uninjured except for the shock to her nervous system.

The fire which started was extinguished with some trouble after the remains of the roof had burned. All the walls of the house are so badly damaged that they will have to be torn down.

THEY CAME TO BLOWS.

Learned Doctors Punch Each Other's Noses.

Disgraceful Scene in the Corridor of the Hotel Lindell in St. Louis.

St. Louis, Mo., Sept. 21.—A lively fist fight occurred in the main corridor of the Lindell hotel last night between Isaac N. Love, editor of the St. Louis Medical Weekly, and Dr. Frank A. Glasgow, both prominent physicians of this city. Dr. Love was slapped in the face for an insulting remark which he is said to have made to Dr. Glasgow, and a lively exchange of blows followed, in which Dr. Glasgow is declared to have come off the victorr.

The trouble grew out of an accusation made by Dr. Love that Dr. Glasgow had resorted to questionable and unprofessional methods regarding the admission of new members to the national society, which is now in session here.

The war department will exhibit at the world's fair a war telephone service, the wire being paid out of the knapsack as a soldier goes to the front. There will also be observation balloons, with telephone wires hidden in the ropes.

SEVEN KILLED.

Head End Collision on the Pennsylvania.

Cars Burned After the Awful Crash.

The Dead Are Taken From the Debris.

The Freight Train Disobeyed Orders.

Full Particulars of the Disaster—Narrow Escape for a Train Load of Eastern Bound Passengers.

Mansfield, O., Sept. 21.—A terrible accident is reported on the Pittsburg, Ft. Wayne & Chicago railroad. The Pittsburg and New York limited, No. 8, eastbound, which left this city at 12:19 this morning, collided with a westbound freight train two miles west of Shreve.

Both trains were running at a high rate of speed and the wreck is complete.

The following are known to have been killed and have already been taken from the wreck:

Three postal clerks, one engineer, two firemen, two passengers—a man and woman.

It is reported here that the wreck caught fire and that a number of persons have perished.

THE DETAILS.

The Freight Train Had Disobeyed Its Orders.

Pittsburg, Sept. 21.—The following information was obtained at the office of General Superintendent Watts, of the Pennsylvania company:

"Seven people were killed and two injured; five passenger cars burned up, two engines and five freight cars demolished in a terrible head end collision at Shreve, Ohio, on the Pittsburg, Ft. Wayne & Chicago railroad about 3 o'clock this morning.

"The colliding trains were section No. 1 of freight train No. 75, and express train No. 8 due in Pittsburg from Chicago at 8 o'clock.

"The cause of the accident was the neglect to obey orders on the part of the freight crew.

"Details of the accident are meager and local officials of the railroad company can only give out a general statement. From the latter source it was learned that the limited mail No. 8 was speeding past Shreve with a supposed clear track. The freight had been ordered to lay on a siding at Wooster to allow the express to pass. For some, as yet unknown, reason, the order was disregarded and the freight pulled out and was under full headway when the flash of the headlights was the first warning received by the engineers, who simultaneously reversed their engines. This was too late, and the huge engines plunged into each other almost at full speed."

AN AWFUL CRASH.

Two Mighty Engines Rear in the Air and Tumble Into the Ditch.

Pittsburg, Sept. 21.—The crash was terrible as the trains came together. The engines reared high on the track while their momentum drove them fairly through each other, and then with the hissing steam and scalding water pouring from every seam and rivet they fell into the ditch alongside the track.

The freight cars telescoped one another until little but a jumble of wood and iron remained.

The panic stricken passengers, bruised and stunned, were thrown from their berths and seats.

With the first crash the lives of the doomed went out.

The passenger engineer, fireman, two postal clerks and two passengers from the express and the fireman and front brakeman on the freight train were instantly killed.

The engineer of the freight train jumped from his engine and escaped instant death, but was seriously injured.

The postal car caught fire and spread rapidly to the two express cars, baggage car, smoker and first coach. The night was pitch dark, but the horrible spectacle was illumined with the brilliant glare from the rapidly burning cars.

The accident occurred about two miles from the village of Shreve, but the country folk, trainmen and passengers at once set about the work of rescuing those imprisoned in the wrecked coaches.

A messenger was dispatched to Shreve for assistance, and from that point word was sent to the railway officials.

The names of the killed so far as known are:

Fireman Charles Smith, Brakeman Nick Hamlin, Brakeman A. E. Glenn; four unknown women and one baby—bodies consumed.

As soon as the remains of the dead were carried out and the injured and imprisoned passengers were in places of safety, attention was given to preventing the flames from spreading to the remaining coaches and sleeping cars. By this time a wrecking train had arrived and everything possible for the comfort of the victims of the accident was promptly done by the company officials.

The track was cleared and traffic resumed within three hours. The passengers were transferred to other coaches and started for Pittsburg, where they will arrive about 11 o'clock.

The passengers of the wrecked train will not reach Pittsburg until between 2 and 3 o'clock this afternoon. The following official statement and list of killed is furnished by Gen. Supt. Watts:

About 3 o'clock this morning, September 21, trains 8 and 75 (first section) collided near Shreve, O., ditching both engines. One postal car, two express cars, one baggage car, one smoker and one coach were destroyed by fire and five freight cars were broken up. No. 8 was one hour and a half late and first and second 75 pulled out on main track against her orders.

Killed.

CHARLES SMITH, fireman.
W. E. HAMMOND, fireman.
GEORGE B. MANN, postal clerk.
H. S. ALLEN, postal clerk.
D. E. REESE, postal clerk.
J. T. PATTERSON, postal clerk.
A. E. GLENN, brakeman.
Two ladies from Espyville, Pa.
One lady and one child from Alliance, Ohio.

Injured—A. Bradley and Frank Burk, enginemen; Joseph Ade, postal clerk; G. Starker, Pittsburg; D. B. Rhodes, Mahoningtown, Pa.; W. H. Brown, Huntington, Ind.; M. Armstrong, Noblesville, Ind.; J. rast, Millville, N. J.; —— Lucox, Massillion, Ohio.

MINISTER PORTER HAS RESIGNED

Washington, Sept. 21.—Gov. Porter, of Indiana, is in Washington and says that the report that he has resigned the position of minister to Italy is true. He left this city to-day for his home in Indiana where he will enter actively in the political campaign.

DISOBEYED ORDERS.

A Similar Smashup Reported in Pennsylvania.

Lancaster, Pa., Sept. 21.—The second section of the Philadelphia express eastward bound ran into the second section of the Pacific express, westbound, on the Pennsylvania railroad at Rheems station, 15 miles west of here about 3 o'clock this morning. Both trains were badly wrecked. One engineer was killed outright and the other and the firemen of both trains fatally injured. None of the passengers were hurt. The cause is attributed to disregard of orders on the part of one of the engineers. The tracks were badly blocked.

TRAIN ROBBERS.

They Ditch a Train in Kansas.

Four Persons Killed in the Wreck

And a Score Badly Bruised in the Debris.

The Cars Roll Down a Steep Embankment.

List of the Dead and Injured and Particulars of How the Wreck Was Caused.

Topeka, Kas., Sept. 21.—A frightful wreck occurred on the Santa Fe railroad, a few miles west of Osage City at 3 o'clock this morning. The train was ditched by train robbers and four of the train crew were killed and about 25 passengers seriously injured.

The train was the Missouri river express, eastbound, and due in this city at 4:45 this morning. It consisted of a baggage and express car, four coaches and three Pullman sleeping cars.

The coaches and sleeping cars were well filled with passengers, nearly all of whom were asleep when the accident occurred.

The train was ditched by obstructions placed on the rails, and rolled down a steep embankment. The day coaches in the forward part of the train were telescoped and it was in these coaches that most of the injured passengers were located. The following are the killed and injured so far as known:

Killed.

EDWARD MEYER, engineer, Topeka.
THOMAS SHADWICK, fireman, Topeka.
—— BLOMENTHAL, express guard, Kansas City.
FRANK BAXTER, express messenger, Kansas City.

Injured.

C. T. Wordlaw, Elliott, Ill., badly bruised about the body and legs.
W. A. Carr, Burlingame, Kas., head cut.
A. C. Board, Newton, Kas., slightly cut on arms.
Ollie Young, Poplar Bluff, Mo., head badly cut.
J. F. Johnson, Indianapolis, badly bruised.
H. C. McClure, Richards, Mo., leg broken and head badly cut.
P. H. Foster, Lawrence, Kas., badly bruised on head and shoulders.
Mrs. Mary Lyman, Bloomington, Ill., head and face badly bruised.
Mrs. Means and two small children, Wichita, Kas., slightly bruised.
Wm. Down and little child, Chillicothe, Mo., slightly bruised.
L. A. Roberts, Emporia, Kas., shin injured.
Thomas Nelson, Topeka, slightly cut on face, head and hands.
C. B. Kinne, express messenger, Kansas City, slightly bruised.
Postal clerks J. B. Oberlin and J. P. Waddell, of Kansas City, slight bruises on hips and back.
Mrs. W. H. Nelson, Mexico, slightly hurt on back and side.

In the express car there was about one million dollars which was being shipped by the Mexican Central Railroad company through its general offices in Boston.

The object of the wreckers was not accomplished, owing to the manner in which the express car was buried by the coaches that were piled upon it in general confusion. So high was the wreckage heaped that it was literally impossible to find the locomotive.

The place selected for the wreck lies between Barclay and Osage City. There is a heavy grade there and frequent curves marks the course of the track.

Eastbound trains pass over this stretch with great speed, and the ill-fated night express was making 50 miles an hour when it rounded a curve 50 yards west of the point where wreckers had removed the bolts from the east end of a rail, swinging it outward toward the embankment, thus switching the train off the roadbed.

Ed Mayer, of this city, was the engineer in charge. Just before reaching the wreckers' improvised switch he noticed that the rail had been misplaced and could see that there was not time to stop the train. He threw the throttle open, hoping that he might be able to jump the break in safety and avert the impending calamity.

The embankment at this point is about eight feet high. The engine plunged over it, following the course prepared by the would-be robbers.

The train was composed of 13 cars in all and except three sleepers were piled on top of the engine. Most of them were overturned and broken into splinters.

Fortunately fire did not break out and it was with little difficulty that an opening was made in the coaches to permit the passengers to emerge into the semi-darkness of the night.

The sight that met the gaze of those who escaped death or injury was terrible. The engine had gone to the bottom of the hill and on top was piled the wreckage of five cars covering it so completely that it was hidden from sight unless one clambered down into the death pit.

SEPTEMBER NIGHTS.

Their Coolness Causes Sickness and Suffering.

Rheumatism is Getting Very Common.

One Woman Brought Home in a Carriage.

Rheumatism is growing more frequent. And it is a painful disease that comes with the cool nights of September. It often baffles the skill of physicians.

George Leatherby, of 138 Seneca street, Buffalo, tells in the Buffalo News about his wife's sad condition. He writes:

"My wife, Hannah Leatherby, had long been a sufferer with rheumatism, complicated with kidney trouble and nervous complaints. Often when she went anywhere, it would be necessary to bring her home in a carriage.

"The doctors had given her up and we were completely discouraged. Yet to-day she would not for a thousand dollars go back to the condition she was in before taking the remedy that was recommended to her by the last physician she consulted. After she had used one bottle of this, she threw away her cane, and when she had taken six times that amount, she was well and strong. This is solely the result of her use of Paine's celery compound, a medicine now prescribed by several physicians in Buffalo. My wife is nearly 70 years old and to-day is doing all her own work. I thank God for what this compound has done for her."

The News, in commenting upon this, says that Mrs. Leatherby's case has aroused a great deal of interest among her friends and acquaintances and many people come to ask about her marvellous cure. They may come doubting, but they go away convinced that Paine's celery compound is the most reliable remedy known for curing disease and restoring the afflicted to health and strength.

THE WHEAT COMBINE.

Charles A. Pillsbury Makes a Statement.

He Offers to Prove That the Statements He Made Were True.

St. Paul, Minn., Sept. 21.—The attack made upon the alleged Minnesota wheat ring has reached an exciting stage. Chas. A. Pillsbury last night wrote the editor of the St. Paul Globe in which the attack was printed, making these two propositions:

He will put up two certified checks for $5,000 each in the hands of the democratic state committee, to be paid if he fails to prove:

First, that the letter he wrote Farmer Arnold at Larimore, N. D., (that the losses by the elevators in 1889 were very large), was true.

Second, if he fails to prove that the profits of his milling and elevator plants were according to his sworn statements for a period of three years last past, or since the organization of the Pillsbury-Washburn Milling company, limited. He offers to have testimony taken at his expense before a commission to be mutually agreed upon between himself and the editor of the Globe.

CATTLE THIEVES.

They Have Been Fired on by the Ranchmen.

Fargo, N. D., Sept. 21.—A band of thieves has established headquarters in Emmons county, in the western part of the state and for months has made a business of running off cattle and horses from surrounding ranches.

The leader of the band is the notorious "Judge" Short, and his headquarters are in a strong log castle on the summit of a rocky hill in the western part of the county.

Word has been received here that ranchmen raided the castle and a sharp battle ensued in which several men were killed and injured. "Judge" Short, after having been wounded, was captured and lynched. The report has not been confirmed.

MAY BE TIP'S BROTHER.

Another Educated African Before the Public.

Nashville, Tenn., Sept. 21.—A young negro who has spent four years at the Central Tennessee college in this city has been called to a throne in Africa. His name is Momolu Massaquai and he came from the Vey country, a region of interior Africa adjoining Liberia. He was converted some years since to Christianity by Mrs. Mary Brierly, an English missionary and through her influence and that of Bishop Penick, of Louisville, was brought to this country and put at school. He received the news to-day that his father—King Balah, had been killed in war and he is called to reign in his stead.

AGED COUPLE.

Enterprise, Ky., Sept. 21.—David A. Wade, of this county was married to Mrs. Elizabeth Garvin at Wellston, O., a few days ago. They are a remarkable couple, their ages aggregating 182 years. The groom has passed the century mark.

EASILY SCARED.

Topeka, Kan., Sept. 21.—There is serious alarm felt here over the prevalence of cholera morbus, although no cases have proven fatal. The health officers have been increased and the city is being thoroughly cleaned.

GOLD DISCOVERIES.

City of Mexico, Sept. 21.—Reports from the state of Pueblo announce rich gold discoveries. Notwithstanding reported decline in silver, mine owners here get back the gold price on their exports. The new stamp act law gains popularity.

Trade has distinctly improved of late.

Don't You Know

that you can secure almost immediate relief from Indigestion, and that uncomfortable fullness after meals, by simply taking a dose of Simmons Liver Regulator? Some people think that because it is called Liver Regulator it has nothing to do with Indigestion and the like. It is the inaction of the Liver that causes Indigestion, and that fullness; also Constipation, and those Bilious Headaches. Millions have been made to understand this and have been cured from these troubles by Simmons Liver Regulator—a medicine unfailing and purely vegetable.

From Rev. M. B. Wharton, Baltimore, Md
"It affords me pleasure to add my testimony to the great virtues of Simmons Liver Regulator. I have had experience with it, as occasion demanded, for many years, and regard it as the greatest medicine of the times. So good a medicine deserves universal commendation.

FINDLAY.

A Cleveland Boy Who Wanted To Be a Tramp.

Findlay, O., Sept. 21.—(Special)—The deceased pioneer, Aquilla Gilbert, first assessor of the county, when his district covered nearly if not quite the whole of the county, was buried this afternoon at Van Lue.

Dr. L. Firmin has donated a hundred or more valuable books to the Findlay public library, which makes a very fine addition.

The family of Hon. A. Blackford received a telegram from him stating that he had arrived at New York and has passed quarantine. He will arrive in the city the latter part of the week.

A boy of 11 years was found with two tramps, when arrested by the police. He had just made the acquaintance of the tramps and proposed to go with them and see the world. He gave his name as Harvey Mills, and said his home was in Cleveland. He said he had a good home and had always been well treated, but wanted to see the world. The father was telegraphed for.

Labon Burgan, an old resident of the city, is dead.

OHIO PENSIONS.

THE OHIO FORESTERS.

Their Grand Lodge Now in Session in the City Hall—The Report of the Secretary for the Past Year.

Cleveland, Sept. 21.—The grand lodge of the Ohio division Independent Order of Foresters, began its fourteenth annual session in the council chamber at the city hall yesterday morning. Grand Ranger Henry Richards presided and after the session had been organized he delivered his annual address. The report of Grand Secretary Dalton was submitted. It showed that since the organization of the grand lodge the sum of $168,060 has been paid in death benefits, $3,876 to indigent members and $4,875 for funerals. The balance to the credit of the benefit fund in the lodges throughout Ohio on September 1 was $1,802.67. During the last year there were 18 deaths as against 28 deaths during the previous year. The appointment of committees took up the remainder of the time at the morning session.

A two-hours' session was held in the afternoon, and at 4 o'clock the grand lodge adjourned until this morning. The members then visited the workhouse, upon invitation of Superintendent Patterson. Last evening several theater parties were formed, and under escort of some of the Cleveland Foresters the visiting delegates were taken to one or other of the playhouses.

BRYAN.

Notes of Social and Personal Interest.

Bryan, O., Sept. 21.—(Special)—Mrs. Ola Emerick and Mrs. Anna Lanyon are the guests of J. K. Powell and wife.

Dr. McTaggart is slowly recovering from his severe illness.

Fred Seids has accepted a position as clerk with Newcomer & Mallory.

Richard Burchell was before the mayor yesterday on a charge of assault and battery.

Loren Ogle, a brakeman on the L. S. & M. S. R. R., had one of his limbs smashed yesterday while switching cars in the yards. It will be amputated.

Mrs. Ella Tomlinson and Mrs. Minta Madden, of Butler, Ind., are visiting relatives here this week.

Mrs. J. J. Higgins, of Chicago, and Mrs. Emma Cramer, Rochester, N. Y., are visiting with their brother, Charles Cramer.

Dan Christman, Toledo, is with us this week.

Miss Clara Jacobs, Edgerton, was in Bryan over Sunday.

THE FIREMEN BROTHERHOOD.

Election of Officers at Tuesday's Session of Their Convention at Cincinnati.

Cincinnati, Sept. 21.—The Brotherhood of locomotive Firemen in convention here elected officers late yesterday afternoon as follows: Grand master, F. P. Sargent, of Terre Haute, re-elected; vice-grand master, J. J. Hannahan, Chicago; grand secretary and treasurer, F. W. Arnold, of Chicago; editor and manager of Locomotive Firemen's Magazine, E. V. Debs, Terre Haute; board of managers, W. F. Hynes, Denver, Col.; C. W. Maier, Parsons, Kan., and A. H. Sutton, Decatur, Ill.

Mr. S. E. Fulton, of San Diego, ran for grand master but received less than forty out of 434 cast. Mr. E. V. Debs was re-elected grand secretary, but positively declined, and thereupon his successor was elected. All the elections were practically unanimous. Places spoken of for the next convention are Milwaukee, Buffalo, St. Louis and Harrisburg. The last named place seemed to lead all the rest last night.

HAD A CLOSE CALL.

Tiffin, O., Sept. 21.—A peculiar accident befell Lewis Hartman yesterday. Thieves had been plundering his grape arbor, and he decided to foil them by picking his crop. A board, which he placed across the top of the arbor broke with him, and in falling his neck got entangled in a loop of wire. He hung by the neck, too choked to call for aid, and was discovered in time by another member of the family.

TRIED THE WRONG MAN.

Fort Worth, Tex., Sept. 21.—Chas. Vincent, an Englishman, was tried yesterday and acquitted of the charge of having attempted to murder Ollie Bowles about three months ago, when Bowles was shot in an unaccountable manner. At the conclusion of the trial Vincent left the court house and soon afterward was seen by Bowles. Bowles quickly jumped from a buggy in which he was riding and fired two shots at Vincent, who fled. Jim Rankin, a young man, was shot through the body, one shot going through his heart, killing him.

SIX PEOPLE INJURED.

Cortland, O., Sept. 21.—A runaway engine collided with train 6 on the N. Y., P. & O. main line due here at 5:20 p. m., one-half mile below this place, wrecking both engines and injuring six persons. The injured are: Mrs. Martha Brandon and three children, badly bruised, one, a babe, will probably die. Warner Howe, engineer, arm broken and otherwise bruised. R. L. Moore, conductor, badly bruised and hurt internally.

CAN'T FIND THEM.

New Haven, Conn., Sept. 21.—Nothing has yet been learned as to the whereabouts of either captain or any of the crew of the semi-piratical schooner Wm. J. Simpson, of Wilmington, Del. There is no doubt that they all went to New York. The vessel has been libelled and the creditors will probably apply to the United States court at its next session for the sale of the vessel to liquidate their claims against her.

SHOT HIS WIFE.

New Haven, Conn., Sept. 21.—Mrs. Edward L. Potter was shot an instantly killed by her husband about 11 o'clock last night. Potter, who was alone with his wife at the time, says he was cleaning a rifle when the weapon was discharged. He, however, has been placed under arrest and will have to answer to the charge of manslaughter.

GO AFTER HIM JIM.

Chawley Mitchell Still Blowing His Horn.

He Wants to Fight Corbett in February.

The Jackson Talk—Base Ball News—Standing of the Clubs—General Mention.

New York, Sept. 21.—The officials of the Coney Island Athletic club are trying to arrange a match between Corbett and Jackson, but the former still adheres to his determination not to engage in any more fights for a year.

Mitchell, however, still hankers after a meeting with the champion, as will be seen from the following cable dispatch from London:

Charley Mitchell has deposited a forfeit of $2,500 and renewing his challenge to fight Corbett for $10,000 a side, the championship of the world and a purse of $20,000 offered by the Olympic club. He wants to fight in February. Mitchell says Corbett must fight him within six months or forfeit the championship.

TH ESOVEREIGN GRAND LODGE.

Elections of Officers at Portland—The Report of Grand Sire Busbee.

Portland, Ore., Sept. 21.—The principal business transacted at the session of the Sovereign Grand Lodge of Odd Fellows was the election of officers for the ensuing year, as follows: Grand sire, G. F. Campbell, London, Ont.; deputy grand sire, J. W. Stebbens, Rochester, N. Y.; grand secretary, Theodore A. Ross, Columbus, O.; grand treasurer, Isaac A. Shepherd, Philadelphia.

The grand sire's annual report shows that the net increase of active lodge membership from January 1, 1891, to January 1, 1892, was 48,807. This is the largest increase ever made in a single year in the history of the order. The total lodge membership is 712,146, and, including the Sisters of Rebekah, 802,881. Expenditures for relief during 1891 were $176,382, aggregate revenue of lodges and encampment $7,726,243, an increase of $183,000 over the previous year; number of cantons of patriarchs militant, 648; number chevaliers 26,000. An invitation has been received by the grand representative from the citizens of Chattanooga, Tenn., through Gov. Buchanan to hold the next sovereign grand lodge in that city.

This afternoon the Sisters of the Degree of Rebekah, of Portland, tendered a reception to the ladies accompanying representatives of the sovereign grand lodge. This evening a past grand representatives' union was held at the First Presbyterian church. Addresses were delivered by Gen. Underwood, Rev. J. N. Venable, and Hon. O. J. Summes. To-morrow where will be no session of the grand lodge, and the representatives will go on an excursion through the Willamantic Valley.

INDIAN TROUBLE.

Troops and Commissioner Keep Them Stirred Up.

Oklahoma City, O. T., Sept. 21.—Troop B, Fifth cavalry, under command of Capt. Jack Hayes, passed through Oklahoma City yesterday from Fort Reno to the Choctaw nation, where they are sent to quell the political disturbances arising from the recent tribal election.

Gov. Jerome, Judge Wilson and Warren G. Sayore, of the Indian commission, left Monday for Fort Reno. They proceed to Fort Sill, where they open negotiations with the Iowa, Comanche and other Indian tribes south of the Wichita reservation.

Secretary King left yesterday and will proceed to Fort Sill. King is confident all four of the agreements which the commission now have before congress for ratification with the Cherokee strip, Kickapoo-Wichita tribes will be ratified before March 4th.

MASONS.

Thirty-Third Degree Conferred Upon Eighteen Candidates.

Providence, R. I., Sept. 21.—At the annual convention of the supreme council of Free Masons of the 33rd degree of the United States held in this city yesterday the attendance was large, embracing members from 15 northern states and visitors from other jurisdictions.

At the morning session routine business was transacted and in the afternoon the delegates and ladies were entertained at Crescent Park. In the evening the 33rd degree was conferred upon 18 candidates.

BACK TO THE PULPIT.

Rev. Arney Will Ask for Another Church.

Detroit, Mich., Sept. 21.—Rev. J. W. Arney, who made a reputation because he raced horses week days and preached sermons Sundays, and who was thrown out of the Methodist church for it, is going back to the pulpit. He, however, will race the season out, having won six purses in the Greenville meet and lowered Guarantee's record to 2:20. Yesterday he sold Mootie Patchen and Tillie S. for $1,200 each. He leaves the track and sulky in two weeks, just in time to ask the conference for a pulpit.

MOTOR CAR ACCIDENT.

Cleveland, Sept. 21.—A Cedar avenue electric motor car collided with a Pennsylvania freight train at the Cedar avenue crossing shortly before 8 o'clock this morning and a number of people were injured, two of them, it is thought, fatally. The motorman says the accident was due to the fact that he was unable to shut off his electric current.

Tries DR. HAND'S COLIC CURE and Secures Rest After

Three Sleepless Nights

MARLBORO, Ohio, April 14, 1892.

The Hand Medicine Co.

DEAR SIRS:—Having used nearly four bottles of your Colic Cure, I forward you this testimonial, hoping it may benefit many mothers with suffering babies. I am the happy mother of triplets, all girls; now 14 weeks old. When they were about 3 weeks old they were taken with a very severe attack of wind colic. There were three days and nights I had two of them in my arms nearly all the time. I tried all the remedies I had ever heard of without any relief. A sample of your Colic Cure was handed me, which I used with the very best results, and I sent for more at once and I shall recommend it to every mother. I feel there is no language strong enough to express its value. I have also used several of the other Remedies and found each to be exactly as you represented them to be. I trust the Lord will forever bless you for procuring a remedy to relieve suffering innocence.

Cleveland's Baking Powder

"Absolutely the Best."

It is made of pure cream of tartar and soda, no ammonia, no alum. A like quantity goes farther and does better work. It is therefore cheaper.

Cleveland's is the baking powder used in the U. S. Army and by teachers of cookery. It never varies, and always gives perfect satisfaction. Try a can.

New Lake Shore Track.

The Lake Shore proposes constructing a track for passenger trains from the Y near the Broadway bridge to the union depot. The object is to accommodate passenger trains that make connections with the boats, and will be utilized during the Toledo exposition.

Having a Hearing for Shooting.

George Dennick, and not Benick, is the name of the steward of the schooner Red, White and Blue, who was arrested yesterday afternoon for firing three shots at the mate of the vessel. He is having a hearing in police court this afternoon on a charge of shooting with intent to kill.

Child Injured by a Runaway.

The two-year-old child of Mrs. Harris, who lives in the Ninth ward, was quite severely injured yesterday afternoon at the corner of Monroe and St. Clair streets. A horse driven by a peddler ran on the sidewalk and overturned the carriage in which the child was riding. The baby's collar bone was fractured, but it sustained no other serious injury.

This Ought Not So To Be.

A partially uncovered refuse wagon made the rounds of the hotels and restaurants on lower St. Clair street this morning about 9 o'clock. The stench emanating therefrom was disease-breeding in the extreme and several pedestrians who were compelled to pass the wagon turned pale and almost staggered. If this thing continues, cholera or something worse will soon be in our midst.

The Clothing House Suspects.

The case of Benster, Quigley and Gunn, the three young men who were arrested for burglarizing the clothing store adjoining the Wheeler opera house, came up in police court this morning. Gunn and Benster waived an examination and were bound over to the common pleas court, bail being fixed at $800. Quigley demanded an examination. He said he knew nothing about the case and he wanted it investigated. He will have a hearing to-morrow morning.

Will Take the Yard Next, Possibly.

J. R. McGlone, who has a lumber yard on the C., H. & D docks, reported at police headquarters this morning that some party or parties entered his lumber yard last night with a wagon and took away about 24 bundles of white cedar shingles. They were branded H. M. Land & Sons, Oscoda, Mich. He also reported that about ten days ago some one broke into his office and carried away a cross-cut saw.

To Arrange for a Big Celebration.

Mayor Emmick said this morning that he intended to ask the chiefs of the fire and police departments, the commanders of the military and all civic societies, and also all leading citizens to meet in his office some time in the near future to arrange plans for a proper celebration of Columbus day. The suggestion that Toledo's new armory be opened on this occasion meets with general approval.

Jim Ashley, Jr., Shaking Up the Party.

Jim Ashley, jr., is unmuzzled and is creating havoc with the hopes of his friends. Jim is particularly sore on John Kumler, whom he has read out of the party. He says the Hamilton-Kumler crowd are not in it, and that he (Jim) proposes running the republican party as far as Lucas county is concerned.

Jim Southard was bloviating about the election last evening when he was called down by M. O. Waggoner, who offered to bet $200 that Ashley would not be elected this trip.

Jim Ashley, not content with running the republican party, says he proposes dictating the democratic nomination for congress.

Looks Like a Fourth Term.

Winnie Ewing, a lad who has already served three terms at Lancaster, was arrested yesterday afternoon for stealing a row boat and he now stands a good chance of making a fourth sojourn at this institution where juvenile delinquents are not always reformed. The boat belonged to Wm. Green, of the East Side, and was valued at about $15. The case was continued in police court this morning until to-morrow.

The Police Court Docket.

Judge Sala quickly disposed of the following Bacchanalians this morning: Wm. McCloskey, $5 and costs; B. Richmond, costs; Owen Connelly, costs, and Martin Kinney, costs. McCloskey was also charged with an indecent exposure and fined $5 and costs for that. Daniel Daley, charged with being a suspicious person, was fined $10 and costs and sentenced to 15 days in the T. W. H. Thos. Henry, who was arrested for disturbance, was discharged.

Trouble From the Flowing Bowl.

Richard Dodge, a hardworking old man with nine children, was tried in police court this morning for abusing his wife when she went home last night in an intoxicated condition. Dodge admitted that he struck her, but he said that she was so full she didn't know whether he did or not. She swore she was sober and industrious, but that she occasionally hit the flowing bowl a little too hard. Judge Sala thought there were extenuating circumstances to the case and therefore discharged the prisoner.

Probable Interesting Occasion.

To-night's session of the police commissioners will be an unusually interesting one, as several important matters will come up for action.

Patrolman Olms, who is charged with having unnecessarily fired his revolver into a crowd in the Fifth ward on the last Saturday in August, will have a hearing, and Patrolman Hewitt will be called up to answer charges of drunkenness and conduct unbecoming an officer, which have been filed against him. Contract for the temporary repairs to the police station will also be let. A long session is probable.

Bids for City Improvements.

The bids opened Monday for the improvement of Bancroft street, from Monroe street to the L. S. & M. S. railroad, have been figured up by City Civil Engineer Miller. Thomas McKinney's bid was the lowest for fire brick, W. R. Warren's bid was the lowest for asphalt, and John Streicher's was the lowest for Medina stone. The bids were as follows: McKinney, fire brick, $13,240.20 with Medina curb and $12,661.70 with Berea curb; John Streicher, Medina stone, Berea curb, $18,352.86; Medina curb, $18,804.86. W. R. Warren, asphalt, $19,732.10 for Medina curb and $19,394.50 for a Berea curb.

The lowest bid for the paving of Putnam street, from Adams to Machen, was that of W. R. Warren. His bid was $26,709.70 for asphalt with a medina curb and $26,152.10 for a Berea curb.

In Labor Circles.

Painters' union, No. 7, held a good meeting at Clarke's hall last night, and besides attending to routine business, adopted a resolution to the effect that a circular letter should be issued monthly giving a correct list of master painters who employ none but union men. This list will be distributed among all business men, firms and citizens, thereby assuring them that if they are favorable to organized labor, they will make no mistake in giving their work to any firm mentioned in this list.

The Salesmen's association held a meeting last night, but transacted no business of importance. They will give a hop during the winter, but the date has not yet been decided.

The carpenters and machinists meet this evening.

The Central Labor union meets to-morrow night.

Circuit Court Terms.

The circuit judges of the state met at Columbus yesterday and arranged for the time of holding court for the coming year. For the Sixth district, which is presided over by Judges Scribner, Haynes, and Bentley, the following dates have been approved:

Lucas, June 3, September 11; Wood, May 1, October, 16; Huron, May 22, October 30; Erie, June 5, November 13; Fulton, June 19, November 27; Williams, June 21, November 29; Sandusky, June 26, December 4; Ottawa, July 5, December 18.

The adjoining district, the Third, will have sittings as follows:

Allen, April, 4, November 20; Auglaize, April 17, November 9; Crawford, June 3, September 28; Defiance, March 7, October 19; Hancock, May 23, December 5; Hardin, March 21, October 12; Henry, February 28, October 17; Logan, February 14, October 5; Marion, January 24, October 3; Mercer, April 25, November 13; Pauldin, March 13, October 23; Putnam, March 28, October 31; Seneca, May 9, November 28; Union, February 21, October 10; Van Wert, May 1, October 25; Wyandot, January 17, September 26.

Anniversary Entertainment.

The Home Aid association held the semi-monthly meeting at Odd Fellows' temple last evening, the principal business being the discussion of the coming anniversary entertainment, and the presentation of the report of the committee on program.

They presented the following invitation and program:

"Yourself and company are respectfully invited to attend our anniversary entertainment at Odd Fellows' temple, Tuesday evening, October 4. Admission free."

The musicale begins promptly at 8 o'clock and consists of guitar solo, with piano accompaniment, by Mr. and Mrs. C. S. Elton; a recitation by Miss Bessie Snell; a song by Harry Hoagland; piano selection, Miss Clara Hoagland; song, Mr. Huntsman; recitation, Miss Bessie Snell; piano solo, Miss Foella; song, Mrs. Burbank; song, Harry Hoagland.

This part will last an hour and dancing will then begin, and continue until 12.

There will be games of various kinds for those who do not care to dance.

Members who are not already supplied with invitations can obtain them from the secretary, Miss Lucie Krieger, at the mayor's office.

All the entertainments given by the association have been successful, and this one promises to be the best.

The Isabella Meeting.

The first meeting of the Toledo Isabella circle after the summer vacation was held yesterday afternoon with Mrs. Rosa L. Segur, 916 Broadway, and was very largely attended, among the guests being Mrs. Josephine Scott, Mrs. Hollenbeck, Mrs. Hanson and Mrs. Hoover, of Perrysburg.

The meeting was of a social order, but the following business received attention: Letters from Dr. Dickinson, secretary of the Queen Isabella association, were read, stating that the building of the Isabella pavilion, or woman's club house, was begun October 1, and that all promises to the holders of $1 certificates will be fulfilled.

The plans of the woman's dormitory, about to be erected by the women physicians of Chicago were laid before the meeting.

The objects of the Isabella association were again stated for the benefit of a number of strangers present.

The secretary, Mrs. S. Alice Richardson, then read various letters relating to the work of the organization.

Mrs. H. Cutter followed, with a brief paper on the influence of the quakers upon American civilization, and Mrs. Richardson gave a description of the character of the Indians at the era of the Columbian discovery.

The next meeting was appointed with Mrs. Romeyn Rogers, 920 East Broadway, on the afternoon of October 20, at 3:30 o'clock. The paper will be given by Mrs. E. R. Collins on the Incas of Peru.

After the business had been disposed of a social season was enjoyed and a dainty lunch served.

NEED COUNCIL HELP

Before a Stagnant pool of Water Can be Done Away With.

The attention of the health department has been called to a stagnant pool of water at the corner of Wade and Williams streets. When referring to the matter today Health Officer Fisher said that this body of water had been a source of complaint for the past twenty years, but that the health board was powerless to abate without the co-operation of the council. He said there was an unrepealed section in the revised statutes of the State of Ohio which says that the health board of this city cannot expend more than $5 to do away with such a nuisance unless the city legislature authorized the expenditure. "Several attempts have been made," said he, "to get the council to take some action in the premises, but it never would."

Robt. B. Dakin, who owns a lot at the corner of the two streets mentioned, has addressed a communication to Dr. Fisher in reference to the matter. Mr. Dakin writes that the alley back of the Wade street property is not filled in, but that if the city would fill up the alley there would be no trouble in filling up the vacant lots and a continuance of the nuisance would thus be made impossible. He also said that many of the houses at this point are occupied by laundresses who throw all their waste water in this alley and allow it to remain there.

The matter will be brought to the attention of the authorities at to-night's meeting.

Mr. N. J. Goergen, late manager and vice president, and Mr. John Young, president of the Star Tailoring Co., called at the Bee office to-day to further correct some statements made in an evening paper. These gentlmen claim that it is not true that Mr. D'Alton is a heavy loser, as stated, by the management of the affairs of the company. In the first place, D'Alton did the buying for the company as a stockholder and charged the concern from 20 to 25 per cent. profit on all goods, and the company itself is only about $1,100 in debt to Mr. D'Alton, whereas he received for same $800 worth of stock, $1,200 book accounts, and about $500 in fixtures, which the inventory will show. In the first place D'Alton took illegal proceedings by which he came into possession of the goods of the company. Mr. D'Alton asked for a bill of sale, but the stockholders would not all sign it. Mr. D'Alton then at night, unbeknown to any of the stockholders, took the stock from the room and removed it to his own place of business.

In regard to the extract from the Salt Lake Tribune, it is entirely false, as no such woman ever lived in said rooms, and Justice Austin has a chattel mortgage still in his possession for collection from the only party in Salt Lake City ever living over Mr. Goergen's store to my knowledge, and as far as notes are concerned there never were any notes given to Mr. Goergen by said party and discounted in said bank; and no such firm as Goergen & Merritt ever existed, as it was Goergen only.

To further prove the above statements is attached a letter received this morning from Squire Austin:

"Mr. N. J. Goergen:

"I wrote to the Commercial National bank of Salt Lake City, Utah, March 5, '91, to collect notes due you against Margaret I. Tuckett. I got a reply back that no attention was paid to notice.

DEMOCRATIC Congressional Convention

The Democrats of the Ninth Congressional District of Ohio, comprising the counties of Fulton, Lucas, Ottawa and Wood, are hereby notified to meet in convention in Bowling Green, Wood County, at 10 o'clock a. m.,

ON TUESDAY, OCTOBER 4, 1892,

for the purpose of placing in nomination a candidate for congress to be supported at the November election.

The basis of representation in this convention will be one vote for every one hundred votes, and one for every fraction of 50 and over, cast for James E. Campbell for Governor in 1891. Upon this basis the several counties are entitled to the following vote in convention:

Fulton	17
Lucas	85
Ottawa	29
Wood	46

L. C. COLE, Secretary. W. J. COLBURN, Chairman.

Democratic Judicial Convention

The Democratic Judicial Convention for the nomination of a Common Please Judge of the First Sub-division of the Fourth Judicial District will be held at Fremont, Ohio, on the 29th day of September, 1892, at 10:30 o'clock a. m. The delegates to said convention are apportioned as follows:

Lucas County	85
Ottawa County	29
Sandusky County	35
Huron County	31
Erie County	38

GEO. B. BOONE, Chairman.
J. M'CRYSTAL, Sec'y.

The suggestion of Col. Frank J. Cheney for congress strikes the popular chord. He could easily be elected over Gov. Ashley.

Mr. Ashley will not come within fifty per cent. of carrying the republican railroad vote in Toledo. That loss will signify his defeat at the polls.

Here's hoping that Senator McPherson will "keep his dander up" till the Hamburg Steamship company's action in shipping hordes of cholera-infected foreigners to this country is thoroughly investigated.

Corbett, the champion, declines to fight Goddard, the blower, for a year. Gentleman Jim purposes taking in a barrel of money in the show business before risking his laurels in the prize ring. Level-headed Jimmy.

If the cholera epidemic continues in Europe and the east and the spring opens with the worry of it and the fear and the danger still in the atmosphere, another postponement of the Columbian exposition might well be considered.

This will not be a brass band campaign in Ohio, but unless good political signs fail there will be an immense vote, and the national democratic ticket may have a plurality. It is almost certain that Col. W. A. Taylor will be elected secretary of state.

Hugh J. Grant is urged by Cleveland and Tammany to make another race for mayor. In many respects Mr. Grant is the most satisfactory executive the metropolis has had for many years. He is also a great vote getter and his candidacy will strengthen the whole ticket.

Evidently Mr. Blaine has not changed his mind at all concerning the McKinley tariff law. He warns his party that reciprocity is the only feature of it which they should bring into campaign discussion. The ex-secretary gives the Harrison party very little comfort.

The Dayton Journal is particularly gleeful over the defeat of Hon. C. P. Griffin in the republican congressional convention. It isn't any of Major Bickham's business what the brethren do in Lucas, but his remarks indicate the excellent state of harmony that exists in the republican party.

For an off day in political grumbling the New York Tribune prints a chapter to prove that Croker and other Tammany chiefs are turncoats because they support Grover Cleveland. Just the same, Tammany will cast its full vote for Grover, and that strength is sufficient to control the electoral vote of New York.

The prosecution of Peck for burning public records is called persecution by republicans. That is what they said of Blaine when the democrats published his famous request to Mulligan, "Burn this." It was the same kind of persecution. This man Peck, appointed labor commissioner of New York by Cleveland, has changed his politics, and like many another flopper he thinks he must prove his sincerity by jumping on his late friends. There is more than a peck of trouble in store for Commissioner Peck.

The work of rehabilitating the United States navy, splendidly begun by the Cleveland administration, continues with satisfactory results. The navy department has just announced that plans are about ready for the construction of another battle ship, to be the largest and most powerful of the new navy. It will be called No. 4 until a suitable name is determined upon. The ship will be 360 feet long, 72 feet beam and have a displacement of 11,250 tons. It is the intention of the department to make it the most formidable fighting ship in the world.

The New York Herald says there is democratic danger in New Jersey. The party is sorely divided into factions and the state is not yet organized for campaign work. Usually in presidential years the party begins to organize in July and by September is ready for the vote. The party, according to the Herald, is all at sea this year with little prospect of getting together. This is astonishing news, though not entirely discouraging, as the national democratic committee with headquarters in New York must be cognizant of the true state of affairs in and resourceful enough to bring order out of chaos and victory out of threatened defeat.

Chicago, which does nothing by halves, discovers in the recent cholera scare the necessity for establishing permanent quarantine around the great metropolis of the west. It is proposed to erect four detaining hospitals or inspection depots near one of the belt lines, twenty miles out, to which all immigrant trains will hereafter stop for thorough inspection and regulation before being permitted to proceed to or through the city. The suggestion is good. There is as much need of inspection in Chicago as at the ocean ports, and one who is at all familiar with the usual lax rules and methods in vogue in New York, Philadelphia and Baltimore realize that further and better inspection is necessary before the ship loads are turned loose in inland cities.

One of the notable things in recent political history is the fact that the Australian ballot law, wherever adopted, results in a reduction of republican majorities. To assume that republicans remain away from the polls because it is difficult and troublesome to learn the new method, is to confess that the party does not possess all the education and intelligence in the country, which its devotees suppose to be an established fact. It is no wonder that the disciples of Dudley, Quay et al. oppose ballot reform in the north, while advocating military supervision of elections in the south. The degenerate old party knows by what sort of manipulations its success is made possible: Dudleyism, tribute from tariff-fed monopolists and a periodical stirring up of race trouble in the south. Let the reform ballot law move on apace.

THE SLAUGHTER OF THE INNOCENTS.

There is something extremely pathetic in the long lists of names of little children in the steerage of infected ships. What heart aches of forlorn and despairing motherhood, what hopes of a new life in the land of promise crushed out forever. Driven from the shores of their nativity, undesired in any land and forbidden in many, verily the case of the poor mortals is a sorrowful one. What possible mental and physical strength for another century goes out into nothingness with these little ones. What might have been in the future, for the Moschels and the Mendelsohns, the Werners and Wesslies, and hundreds of others, age one, two and three years, or months, whose only record of life is a name in the list of the dead by cholera? Whence and wherefore all this sum of human suffering? And is it by accident or design that such multitudes of created forms with all the wonderful mechanism of life and its various achievements come struggling into the light of existence to flit out again into unfathomable darkness with the next turn of the wheel? Innocent, helpless victims of a cruel fate, or of the mistakes or misdeeds of others, the mystery of mysteries is the mission of their little lives. In how far is cleanly christendom responsible for this world-wide sorrow?

A WEE CAT IN THE MEAL TUB.

The New York Recorder asks this very pertinent question:

Will some landlord tell us how rental values can be kept up on free trade wages?

This inquiry is respectfully referred to the wage earner who is told by the republican press that protection, so-called, makes wages high and everything else cheap. The Recorder might continue its list of inquiries indefinitely about articles which wages must buy or hire to maintain family living, and the logical conclusion of the whole matter would be that alleged protection (protective tariff) increases the cost of nearly everything the family consumes. But the wage doesn't increase because of the tariff. There is not an instance where the wages of any man or woman in Toledo have increased in consequence of the passage of the McKinley act. The Bee circulates in four hundred towns and cities in Ohio, Indiana and Michigan. There is not an instance of wage increase because of the McKinley law in any of these four hundred industrial towns. An occasional slip like the one made in the Recorder, above quoted, reveals the true intent of the high taxers. The protective theory is two fold—to make the wealth owners richer and fool the wage earners into voting for imaginary protection. It is a sham and a fraud upon the wage earners.

SOMEWHAT UTOPIAN.

William Dallin, of Chicago, flashes upon the commercial world as the greatest railway promoter of the century. There is nothing of the picayune nature about William. He is a $900,000,000 chap or bust, and maybe he will bust, though you couldn't make him believe it this fall.

Mr. Dallin proposes to construct an air line railway from New York to San Francisco—an absolute air line, which will save 800 miles over the shortest route now in operation. He will pay no attention to cities on the way, but will make them all come to William. New cities will rise and old ones will run switches to the big road. Mountains will be bored and rivers and lakes will be crossed. The road is to be in operation by 1900 and will control all the through and local business on that great highway from ocean to ocean, and be a big payer from the start. William is so confident that he estimates that the principal will be paid within six years after the completion of the mastodonic enterprise.

This is the scheme. It looks immense and is big, though at present writing Mr. Dallin has not raised the $900,000,000 necessary to construct the railway. In fact, there isn't a penny in the treasury yet and there may be none before Christmas. When the cholera scare is over William will go to England and talk it over with the boys.

SILVER.

It is Being Discussed by Englishmen.

London, Sept. 21.—In the meeting of the Association or Chambers of Commerce of the United Kingdom at Newport to-day there was a long discussion over a resolution offered by the Hull chamber of commerce to this effect: "That constant depression of silver in India has a very detrimental effect both upon the welfare of India and of this country, and this association is of opinion that the only effectual remedy will be the substitution of a gold standard of value."

The majority of the members present were evidently unwilling to make such a broad declaration in favor of a gold standard, and the motion was got out of the way by ordering the previous question.

RUSTICUS WON.

London, Sept. 21.—The Leicestershire royal handicap to-day was won by Mr. Hammar Bass' 6-year-old black or chestnut horse, Rusticus, by Hermit out of Mabelle. Baron De Hirsch's 3-year-old bay colt Windgall, by Galliard out of Windsor, was second, and A. B. Cara's 4-year-old bay colt Worldly Wise, by Wisdom out of My Pet, was third.

SOLVED AT LAST.

A Problem That Has Baffled Economists, Embarrassed Merchants and Manufacturers, and Impoverished Farmers.

The expose of the methods of a relatively small number of millers and elevator owners in the northwest, is one of paramount interest to a very large number of farmers, and also to a respectable number of grain dealers and millers in the middle, eastern and southern states.

Economists and mercantile operators have from time to time assigned causes for the low prices of wheat and flour, numerous reasons have been given for decline and consequent depression, the railroads have while lessening their rates 100 per cent. been charged wth extortion, grain buyers in the lake ports and eastern cities have been roundly abused as monopolistic speculators, the heresy of overproduction has been quite generally indulged—all of these causes are now proven to have been groundless. The facts regarding the railroads are that they have for the last 20 years annully reduced their charges, and very few of them pay regular dividends. As for the lake port and eastern grain dealers very few of them have been successful, the business having been extremely hazardous. It turns out now that the misfortunes of all middle state and eastern wheat growers, buyers and millers, is primarily and positively due to the fact that the growers of 100,000,000 bushels of wheat in the northwest have been forced by the most unprincipled practices to put it upon the market at but a shade over half its real value, when all the elements of cost are fairly considered.

The product of the Dakotas and Minnesota, while something less than one-fourth that of the whole country, is large enough to fix the price in farmers' hands for the country's production. The unscrupulous, cowardly advantage taken of the poor homesteader who had to accept what was offered or starve, has prostrated two large industries in all the states outside the Dakotas and Minnesota, that is wheat growing and the manufacture of flour.

The price at which the Ohio, Indiana and Michigan farmer is to-day selling his wheat, is notoriously below cost of production; it is bringing only about three-fourths of what would be a remunerative price. All over these states are flour mills that are idle, a large portion of the time, because they cannot be run at any profit, wherever the Minnesota flour has been put into the market, and its introduction has been quite general.

What a spectacle of rapacity is the sight of a republican senator thus preying upon the farmers and manufacturers of nearly all the other states in the union. Senator Washburn should be impeached at once and declared ineligible for any office during life; it would be mild punishment for his crime.

COL. CHENEY DECLINES.

To the editor: I saw by last evening's Bee you mentioned my name as a candidate for congress. While I fully appreciate the honor of such a nomination, my business relations are such that it would be impossible for me to accept, even were it offered me by the convention.

I am not a candidate in any sense of the word.

Thanking you and my friends for the honorable mention, I remain, yours sincerely,

F. J. CHENEY.

WHO PAYS THE TAX?

That the foreigner pays the tariff tax is one of those reckless assertions which, being one-tenth true, in some cases, and nine-tenths false, and in the vast majority of cases wholly and absolutely false, is much more dangerous than an out and out falsehood.

But let us examine that assertion, that the foreigner pays the tariff tax.

An American importer goes to Europe and buys a stock of goods, say $100,000 worth. When he reaches the American custom house he finds that there is an average of forty per cent. tariff to pay so that his purchase costs him in New York $140,000. Of course when he sells to the retail dealer he must take account of the $40,000 tariff tax. Now the only way the foreigner could be said to pay that would be to show that he sold his goods to the importer forty per cent. cheaper on account of the tariff. But this has never been shown. And if the foreigner did this how could the manufacturer in this country be profited by protection? The forty per cent. tax on foreign goods was to protect, but if the foreigner takes off the tariff tax in the price he asks for his goods, then the home manufacturer is not protected against low prices in the old world.

The forty per cent. tariff tax is called the difference between the cost of production of the goods in question. But if this difference is removed by the foreign manufacturer then the American manufacturer is at the same disadvantage as ever—that is, if there is any disadvantage without the tariff.

I have seen the tax on horses brought from Canada, for instance, mentioned as a very evident proof that the foreigner pays the tariff tax. We will suppose that tax is $20 on each horse. The Canadian coming with a horse to the border between Canada and the United States must pay this $20. Now this looks as though the foreigner in this case pays the tax. But let us look at the matter more closely. The tax on horses was to benefit the American farmer. Does it benefit? Does it cause the price of horses to advance? If so, then the Canadian may not suffer any financial loss; for he gets more for his horse. So he goes back home, having, in fact, suffered no loss on account of the tax. But we may be told that the tax does not increase the price of horses in the least. In this case the American farmer is not benefited by the tax. But here it may be said that the tariff, though it may not increase the price of horses, does help powerfully to maintain their price which otherwise would decline. Well, in this case the Canadian exporter is not injured. In the first case if the price is increased by the tax, he profits by that increase. In the second place, if the price is only kept from declining, he is in this case also profited. The consumers of horses, as every one must see, are the ones that, at last, pay the tax.

The whole claim that the foreigner pays the tariff tax is false and deceiving.

CHAS. CRAVENS.

Toledo, Ohio.

VOICE OF THE PEOPLE.

Suggests an Experiment.

To the Editor: It is apparent that Toledo is to be outdone by St. Petersburg, Hamburg, Paris and other foreign towns in the way of a cholera scourge. The scare for the plague is nearly over, but our health department has failed to find a case in our city. They have left no stone unturned and have gone so far as to open a pest house in our midst, and stop immigrants who had passed the eastern quarantine on their way to the northern states and held them here to see if they could not fish up a case just to give Toledo's health officers a chance to experiment at title. Now, rather than to disappoint the health department and not to be outdone by our foreign neighbors, would it not be a good plan to send east and get a good prism case or two of genuine cholera and try the experiment and see if it will prosper in Toledo or not?

DAWES' SUCCESSOR.

Feeling on the Subject in Massachusetts.

His Friends There Propose to Take Part in the Campaign.

Lodge the Favorite of the Two Leaders in What Promises to be a Great Campaign.

Pittsfield, Sept. 21.—These old neighbors and constituents of Senator Dawes, up here in the Berkshire hills and throughout the new First congressional district, take the liveliest sort of interest in the election of his successor. For 36 years half the time in the house and half the time in the senate, he has represented them at Washington, and now they realize that the populous eastern section of the state is to furnish the next United States senator, and they propose to take an active and a sensible part in the selection.

The younger and managing generation of republican politicians in the district are in full control of the party organization, and are not talking much about dark horses, or available men. The fact that the fight for the senatorship is between Congressman Lodge and Speaker Barrett is as freely accepted here as in the portions of the state nearer the homes of those gentlemen. Occasionally one hears a man say that he would like to see ex-Gov. Robinson or ex-Gov. Long in the senate, but that man probably knows that Gov. Long has said publicly that he would not take the place if the commission were brought in and laid on his desk.

But there is no fear of such a thing being done. The commission is not going to the man who sits back and waits for it to be brought to him. The lines are being sharply drawn for a contest, and, so far as the First congressional district is concerned, it is patent that Mr. Lodge to-day has the advantage. There was a time, not so long ago, when the old guard of the republicans of Massachusetts were arrayed in solid phalanx against Mr. Lodge, but to-day there are in this district many men who fought in the front rank of that stalwart old legion who are firmly fixed in their preference for the man they once tried to annihilate.

Senator Dawes himself does not publicly discuss the question of who is to succeed him, so far as the mentioning of individuals is concerned, although he has, of course, some very fixed opinions upon this point.

The idea that the next United States senator is not to be chosen until next January does not worry the republicans here at all. They all understand that the campaign has been waged at the state house for two years at least, and the apparent fact to them is that the men they are now about to nominate and hope to elect to the legislature will choose the next senator. It is easy to perceive a determination on their part to know just where their senators and representatives stand on this senatorial question, and candidates will be asked their preferences.

The entire stock in trade of Speaker Barrett in this part of the state is his support from present and past members of the legislature. This is by no means a weak backing, as ex-members of the legislature are apt to be influential, but it shows that the speaker is not well known here, except to that small number of people.

There are not more than three representative districts in the territory comprised in the First congressional district, that are not quite certain to send anti-Barrett men to the legislature. Among the democrats here there is a feeling that their party should have a senatorial candidate of its own, aid, as far as the republicans are concerned, the desire that there be a caucus for the nomination was practically unanimous.

Thea criticism most usually made of Speaker Barrett is that his political methods are not liked. On all sides he is spoken of as a "bright man," but there seems to be a latent distrust in the minds of the republicans in this district that he is not the right man to be a senator of the United States.

Surely, Speaker Barrett will have to look to some other part of the state for republican votes. Franklin county has always been opposed to him and Berkshire will be almost solidly against him for the senatorship. He may do a little better in some parts of Hampden county, but at best his followers from western Massachusetts will be few.

IN WASHINGTON.

Mrs. Harrison Arrives at the Capital.

The Trip Without Incident and the Invalid No Worse for the Journey.

Washington, Sept. 21.—The special train bearing the president, Mrs. Harrison and party arrived at the Pennsylvania depot at 8:45 this morning, about 15 minutes late. The trip from Albany was devoid of incident. The party reached Jersey City about 3 a. m., 40 minutes late.

The arrange ments along the route under George W. Boyd were perfect and everything was done for Mrs. Harrison's comfort. All whistles and noises along the railroad were stopped and the depots were kept quiet. The president occupied a berth in the car, near Mrs. Harrison and lay down at intervals.

At Washington the party was met by Postmaster General Wanamaker, Col. Ernst, U. S. army, and Dr. Bannister, army surgeon, with a corps from the Washington barracks and an ambulance which was driven to the end of the car sheds to avoid a crowd about the depot, where about 5,000 people had assembled to await the arrival of the party.

Mrs. Harrison was taken from the rear car and placed on an army litter and carried to the ambulance. The president and Dr. Gardner rode in the ambulance with Mrs. Harrison and Dr. Bannister took a seat on the outside of the ambulance. Four mounted police cleared the streets for the party which moved from the depot to F street to avoid the crowd. Thence they were driven to the main entrance of the white house. An incident took place that showed the affection which Mrs. Harrison holds for those about her household. A number of clerks watched her removal from the ambulance from the office windows. Glancing up from her couch Mrs. Harrison saw the eager faces of the sympathetic employes and smilingly waved her hand in greeting to them. She was taken from the ambulance and carried to her apartments on the second floor, accompanied by the president and Dr. Gardner, where she at once found herself among all the comforts of home.

Dr. Gardner in speaking of the trip said that Mrs. Harrison stood the journey very nicely, in fact, much better than they had anticipated and as the train brought them to Washington she became more buoyant in spirit. She slept most of the journey from Albany and is resting comfortably this morning and seems delighted to be again in Washington.

After the death of James Russell Lowell, the Egyptian exploration fund elected George William Curtis as its honorary vice president. And who shall now be elected as his successor is a question that Dr. Winslow, of Boston, the vice president and honorary secretary for the United States, and others will have some trouble to decide. Both Lowell and Curtis took an active interest in the work of the society. Mr. Charles Dudley Warner is mentioned, among others, for the place.

An uncommonly fine peach crop grows upon two great battle fields, Gettysburg and Antietam. The region covered by these orchards extends from southern Pennsylvania down into western Maryland, and thence by the Potomac valley into West Virginia. These peaches reach market in August and September. The orchards are in the river valleys and are thus protected from frost.

BIG DEALINGS.

A Settlement Reached in the Holland House Case.

New York, Sept. 21.—To-day Deputy Sheriff Carraher was to have sold at auction in the city hall, the right, title and interest of Mrs. Van Doren in the Holland house, Fifth avenue and Twenty-ninth street, but the sale has been adjourned for a week in order to effect a private settlement.

Mrs. VanDoren's brother, Jordan L. Mott, has a judgment for $207,000 against the property, which was obtained in the effort to readjust the Mott estate. The judgment was obtained so that her brother, Mr. Mott, could bid in the property for his sister and transfer her interest in the Iron works to the Holland house. To-day the fees and other details were arranging and Deputy Sheriff Carraher said the property would not be offered at auction.

The South Portland Not Allowed to Leave.

She Is Charged With High Misdemeanor by the Venezuelan Minister.

New York, Sept. 21.—The South Portland, which was seized last night for the second time, under the direction of Surveyor Lyon, as she was apparently getting under way for Trinidad, was still in custody this morning.

A crew of revenue officers were on board to prevent Francisco Gonzales from making any attempt to get her out of port before she is properly released.

The South Portland is held under instructions from Washington which ordered the United States officers at this port to detain her until the charge of high misdemeanor preferred by the Venezuelan minister against Gonzales is investigated.

Late yesterday afternoon Sheriff Stuart attached the office furniture of the Sandusky Fire Insurance company, which has headquarters in Toledo, with general offices in the Walbridge block, on Summit street, between Adams and Madison streets. The sheriff also attached money standing to the company's credit in the First National bank.

The attachments were issued in Cleveland, on claims filed in common pleas court of Cuyahoga county, and forwarded to King & Tracy, of this city, for execution.

The attaching creditors are the Reserve Insurance company, with a claim of $1,100 and J. W. Weigel, $450. The sheriff is still in possession of the property.

DEMAND THE DIFFERENCE.

In buying baking powders, as well as anything else, insist upon having the worth of your money. If another brand is urged upon you in place of the Royal, bear in mind that it has from 27 to 50 per cent. less leavening strength than the Royal, as shown by the official chemical tests, which is equal to from 13½ to 25 cents per pound less value than the Royal. If you buy a low class powder, see that you are charged a correspondingly lower price.

PECK INDICTED.

He Must Answer to the Court for His Deeds.

The Commissioner is Dodging the Officers.

His Attorney Trying to Argue the Case in the Newspapers Instead of the Courts.

Albany, N. Y., Sept. 21.—When the Albany county grand jury came into court this morning, it handed in a sealed indictment among the others and retired.

It is given out on the best authority that this indictment is found against Charles F. Peck, the commissioner of labor, and charges him with having wilfully and maliciously destroyed papers and documents under the seal of the office of commissioner of labor for public information.

The indictment is found upon evidence given the jury by the janitor of the building where Mr. Peck resides and who testified that he was hired to burn up a lot of blanks, charred portions of which were put in evidence.

Mr. Peck was not to be found this afternoon, and was supposed to be absent from the city with the advice of his counsel. The indictment will not be opened until he is brought into court under arrest by the officers of the district attorney's office.

Mr. Edward J. Meegan, who is counsel for Mr. Peck, said this afternoon that he expected the indictment, as the county prosecuting officer was a hot-headed Cleveland man.

Mr. Peck was expected in the city last night and had telegraphed his office that he would be here, but at the last moment was warned not to come until measures could be taken to meet the indictment.

Mr. Meegan alleges that the idea is to get Mr. Peck in jail so that the governor will have a chance to remove before the coming election. In an interview he says:

"It is a game of bulldozing that they are playing and an exceedingly bold move. What they intend to make by it I cannot conceive. They must certainly be defeated in the end. All we can do now is to appear in court and then await trial."

"What do you think, Mr. Meegan, as to the point made by some that in case an indictment is found against Mr. Peck, it will disqualify him from office?"

"There is nothing in the act creating the office of commissioner of labor statistics which became a law in 1883, which could disqualify Mr. Peck in case an indictment were found against him. There must be a conviction in order to bring that about. All sorts of schemes will no doubt be resorted to by the committee now that the fight is on, and I would not be surprised to hear anything with regard to the proposed proceedings."

Gov. Flower had not heard of the indictment and declined to discuss it, intimating that he had nothing to do in the matter unless charges were presented.

Cleveland, Sept. 21.—Ashland shippers still seeking tonnage at $1.15, but all Escanaba loads find vessels at 75 cents. Situation outside of Duluth and Ashland is, if anything, a little easier than it was at the close of last week. Difficulty in getting coal cargoes to the head of Lake Superior has much to do with scarcity of vessels in that locality.

LATE MARKETS.

The receipts of wheat to-day at Minneapolis and Duluth are 516,428 bushels and at five other western points 1,012,270 bu., total 1,528,698 bushels. On the corresponding Wednesday in 1891 the receipts at the same points were 1,280,574 bushels, including 621,167 bushels of northwest wheat, leaving for the five other points 659,407 bushels, compared with 1,012,270 bushels to-day.

Export clearances yesterday at four Atlantic ports were wheat 262,165 bushels and flour to an aggregate of 340,000 bushels.

English markets are steady and unchanged for wheat and corn.

The markets for both wheat and corn opened this morning weak and lower. Corn was the weakest on fine growing weather west, and declined 1c for October. Doubtless the weakness of corn affected wheat, which, however, did not break much, say 3-8c on December. About one hour before the close a cold wave was announced in the Chicago corn pit, and corn began to advance. Of course the shorts were alarmed again—that is what a cold wave is for, to frighten short sellers—and wheat followed suit. Prices regained more than the loss and closed 3-8c above yesterday at Chicago, on December wheat, and 1-4c on October corn. If there are other bullish reasons for the little spurt in prices we do not know of them. Cold waves are not only very handy at this season, but very significant if they are cold enough to catch late corn.

In New York October wheat closed at 79c and December at 82 1-4, a gain on each of 1-8c. September corn, 53 3-4c, a gain of 1-2c; October at 53 5-8c, a gain of 1-4c. October oats at 37 3-8c, a gain of 1-8c.

In Chicago October wheat closed at 73 1-4c, a gain of 1-8c. December at 76c, a gain of 3-8c. October corn at 46 1-4c, a gain of 1-4c. October oats at 33c, a gain of 1-8c.

In Toledo—The market for wheat futures was very dull in the fore part of the session and declined 5-8c on the basis of December, but in the last hour there was a much improved feeling in the market with more trading and an advance in prices. At close September wheat had gained 1-4c and bid. October, 1-2c and bid; December steady, and May steady.

Cash wheat was in moderate demand. Opening prices 1-4c lower, but the loss was recovered and closed 1-4c up; No. 2 soft sold at 74c and at close 74 1-2c was bid; No. 3 soft at 67 to 67 1-4 and at 68 L. S.; No. 4 soft at 60; rejected No. 1 at 63 to 67; No. 2 at 50 1-2 to 51.

Corn, No. 3 at 46 1-2; No. 3 yellow at 47 1-2; No. 2 mixed at 47 1-2. Rye—On the call No. 2 for October sold at 58. On the regular board No. 2 at 57 1-2; No. 3 at 50; rejected at 41 to 36.

Clover seed was in demand and prices improved a little. Prime for cash at $5.95; November at $5.95; December at $6.00; January at $6.10; No. 2 at $5.55 $5.75.

Close in New York.

New York, Sept. 21.—Money on call this morning loaned easy at 3@4 per cent. Exchange steady; posted rates, 4.86@4.87 1-2; actual rates, 4.85@4.85 1-4 for 60 days and 4.86 1-2@4.86 3-4 for demand. Governments steady; currency 6's, 1.07 bid; 4's common, 1.15 bid; extended 2s registered, 1.00 bid.

Rye dull and lower at 62@66c.

morning, the sales amounting to only 126,125 shares. Colorado coal advanced 1 1-4 and Reading 7-8 per cent. Whisky trust and Nor Pac pfd were the weak features and sold off a fraction.

At this writing the market is lifeless.

Flour quiet and featureless; superfine, 1.70@2.20; fine, 1.65@2.10; city mill extra, 4.25@4.35 for West Indies.

Wheat opened weak and 1-8 lower and further declined 3-8 in the early trading. Toward noon there was a rally of 1-8; No. 2 red winter, 78 1-2 cash; 77 3-4 September; 78 1-2 October; 80 bid, November; 81 5-8 December.

Corn opened weak and so continued to midday. At noon prices were 5-8c off. No. 2 mixed cash and November, 53 1-2; October, 52 3-4.

Oats opened weak and declined 1-4c by noon. No. 2 mixed, 36 1-2 cash; 37 October; 38 November.

Rye dull and lower

Barley neglected.

Molasses quiet; New Orleans, 30@35 for good to fancy. Sugar refined moderately active and firm; cutloaf and crushed, 5 5-16@5 1-2; granulated, 5@5 3

IN JAPAN.

Toki of Japan
Had a wonderful fan,
And a highly elaborate obe.
Lovely obe (that's sash),
Charming eye! curling lash—
I decided to linger in Kobe.

I bought her bon-bons,
Quite a couple of tons.
And melon seeds, sugared—in lacquer.
When she danced the Ko-ko
In her blue Rimono,
Against all the world I would back her.

She'd play the samsin,
Not with heathenish din,
But in melody gentle and tender—
Afterward we'd drink tea,
Toki nestled by me,
While I stroked her small fingers so slender.

Tea houses are dear,
And my check-book spoke clear
That speedily I must leave Kobe
Toki moaned and she sighed,
And vehemently cried,
And donned a lugubrious obe.

The samsin forgot,
The tea she made not,
She wore not the fair lotus flower;
She let down her hair,
Doffed her sandals—feet bare—
Prayed to Buddah for over an hour.

Just two months ago
Unexpectedly—know—
I was sent to Japan, and to Kobe,
In a tea garden gay,
Making tea—the old way,
I saw a young man—and my Toki.

WORKER OF MIRACLES.

Toward the middle of the fourteenth century there suddenly appeared in Florence, Italy, a personage calling himself Dr. Attrapeccini. Whence he came no one knew. His name indicated an Italian origin; but, from his accent in speaking, one would have supposed him to be a German, while his long beard, grave expression and majestic bearing seemed suggestive of the Orient. Certain manuscripts, indeed, declared him to have been a native of Gascony, but the authenticity of these manuscripts has not been proved.

Whatever might be his nationality, however, the doctor had no sooner arrived in Florence than he caused to be announced, with a great flourish of trumpets, cornet and drum, that on Tuesday, the first of May, at precisely 6 o'clock in the morning, he would repair to the city's cemetery and there restore to life five persons of his own choosing.

At last the excitement grew so intense that the podestat, or chief magistrate of Florence, resolved to send for Dr. Attrapeccini and demand an explanation. A man who was able to restore five dead persons to life could have no difficulty in guessing what was passing in the mind of a podestat, and, accordingly, the magistrate was just about to strike his gong to summon an usher when the doctor himself was announced.

"You come just in time, doctor," said the magistrate; "I was just about to send for you."

"I knew it, my lord, and wished to anticipate your orders," was the reply, uttered in a calm tone that filled the podestat with amazement.

He recovered himself, however, and was going to interrogate the new comer when the latter exclaimed:

"I understand, my lord, that some of your people here have doubts of my science and even my honesty—in short, that I am suspected of coming to Florence for the purpose of making dupes."

"Something of the kind has been intimated," replied the magistrate.

"They say, moreover," continued Dr. Attrapeccini, "that I intend to decamp a day or two before the first day of May."

"That also has been said," assented the podestat.

"You can understand," said the stranger, slowly, "that I owe it to myself to put an end to these reports. I have come to request of you that a guard of ten, twenty, thirty, or more men be stationed round my house, so as to make it impossible for me to leave Florence before releasing from their tombs five persons, as I have promised. You cannot say that my request is an unreasonable one, since you have determined before seeing me to have me watched."

"Your request is granted," he said. "I shall have your house guarded night and day by twenty men, until the time comes for you to fulfill your promise, or until you change your mind, and acknowledge you were not in earnest. It would, perhaps, be wiser for you to leave the city at once; believe me, it is not safe to put a whole town in commotion. I know the Florentines, and I believe them capable of falling upon you in fury, perhaps of hanging you, when they find they have been mocked at and tricked. The least serious mishap that could befall you would be a sojourn of several months in prison while you waited for the public indignation to subside."

"I should deserve even more severe treatment if I failed to carry out my program," said the doctor.

The doctor's interview with the magistrate was soon known all over Florence, and the news of it served to increase the popular interest and confidence in the stranger.

A week before the first of May, a man about 40 years old, and dressed completely in black, entered the doctor's study. He was the Senator Arozzo, celebrated for the violent grief he had displayed on the death of his wife six months before.

"Sig. Attrapeccini," said he, briskly, "I do not wish to waste words. Although what you promise is generally considered impossible, I admit that it may be possible, and I have come here to beg you to leave my wife at rest in the cemetery.

"What!" exclaimed the man of science, with a laugh; and the widower repeated his own words, earnestly.

"I beg of you!" he cried; "I am about to marry again—the banns will be published next month. You would not like to put a man in such a predicament, would you?"

As he spoke he placed a purse full of gold on the table.

"Set your mind at rest," said the doctor, "and continue the preparation for your wedding."

The next day he received a visit from Philippini, the most famous physician of Florence, and, indeed, of all Tuscany: out of every hundred Florentines at least eighty were at one time or another in his care.

"Learned and honored brother," said he to attract Attrapeccini, "I trust that you would not do me the injury of bringing back to the light of day any of the unfortunate people who have chanced to pass away while in my hands."

"Certainly not," replied the other; "just give me the names of the persons you mean."

"That would be a very difficult matter," said Philippini; "would it not be more simple for you to exclude from your ceremony all my former patients?" and with these words he laid on the table a heap of gold coins.

"It shall certainly be as you wish, my dear brother," said the foreign physician.

The door had hardly closed upon Philippini when it was opened again to admit two brothers, named Gavazza. The Duke Pierre Gavazza and his brother, the Marquess Paul, had risen, partly by their own merits and partly by good luck, to the first rank in the Italian nobility; but their journey had been long and difficult, as their father had been a miller. It was this miller whom they did not wish to see restored to life.

Dr. Attrapeccini was shocked, and exclaimed, angrily, that he could not believe it possible that two persons could be so unnatural as to oppose the resuscitation of their own father. It was nothing less than parricide, and he would not connive at such baseness! He had not had any intention of reviving the miller, but now he would take good care to do so, and unless he changed his mind, the old Gavazza would be the first person resuscitated in the cemetery.

The dismay of the duke and the marquis may be imagined. They offered money, but, although they had brought a large sum with them, it was not sufficient to allay the scruples of Attrapeccini, and each of the brothers was obliged to sign a note.

The eve of the first of May arrived, and the guards around his house were doubled, and received the strictest orders, for the chief magistrate knew that the people would blame him if the invoker of the dead were allowed to escape. It was estimated that fifty thousand persons were assembled in the cemetery or its vicinity on the first of May, at 6 in the morning, and as the doctor did not appear at the first stroke of the hour as he had promised, fifty thousand voices cried out: "At trapeccini! Attrapeccini!" At the same time the chief magistrate presented himself at the stranger's house and found the interior of it just as empty as the exterior was well guarded.

The restorer of the dead had departed by way of the cellar, where there was an opening into the next house, and the chronicle reports that he took with him a sum equivalent to 50,000 florins, which had been paid to him on consideration of his not performing a miracle, and of leaving dead in their graves.—The San Francisco Argonaut.

A Great Thing for Jewel Place Purchasers.

Rapid transit brings these beautiful lots in Jewel Place, now selling for $250, $300, $350, $450 and $600, in direct competition with other property on the line selling at $25 to $75 per foot front.

In Jewel Place
$1,500 has just been spent in grading the lots to a desirable elevation above the street.
$1,000 has been invested in laying stone walk. Four very attractive residences are about completed that are selling at cost prices in starting the property. Is it a wonder that Jewel Place property is going off rapidly?

Jewel Place
Is now ready for market. We have already closed out a number of lots. During the past week four purchasers have decided to cast their lot with this property. PRICES HAVE NOT BEEN ADVANCED except for the east front of Glenwood avenue, which now sells at $11.66 per foot. Terms of payment $5 to $10 per month. For Jewel Place bargains come this week. We offer a very handsome bonus for all houses started this month.

COP HEADQUARTERS.

A Bee's Observations of the Surroundings.

Looks as if Quarantine Would Be Needed Against the Place From Which Health Orders Emanate.

A prophet is not without honor save in his own country, and on the same general principle boards of health are not without usefulness except in the immediate vicinity of their headquarters. At least this is the impression a stranger would form if he even casually examined the Toledo police station and its environments.

The headquarters of the board of health are at the station house, and one would naturally think that under such circumstances the building itself and the adjacent territory must necessarily be a model of cleanliness and purity. It ought to be so, anyway, but it isn't, and the fact remains that the station is a menace to the good health of those who are compelled to pass very much of their time there.

Judging from its present appearance the building dignified by the name "police headquarters," was erected at a period in the middle ages when there was no danger of a cholera outbreak. The arrangement of the rooms on the basement floor is suggestive of a house struck by a Kansas cyclone and afterwards put together in the dark. But more of this later on.

A Bee investigated the place and its surroundings this morning for the purpose of verifying rumors to the effect that it was not in a good sanitary condition, and found sufficient evidence to corroborate them. On the St. Clair street side of the building is a narrow alley, across which is a ramshackle shed that does duty for a barn; a pile of miscellaneous rubbish, a vault and a barrel filled with filth and stale water. In the alley was an oblong box half full of manure.

The northeast corner of the station is bordered by another alley, a smoke house, a hide depository and another manure box.

The basement of the building is its worst and most dangerous feature. It has become thoroughly impregnated with fould and nauseating odors from the surroundings mentioned above, and it is impossible to purify it, as the stench seems to have penetrated the woodwork through and through.

Off of the little hallway opening on the alley running from Market Space to St. Clair street is a little one-horse room where meals for the prisoners are prepared on a gasoline stove. Several rings of bologna were hanging on nails driven in the wainscoting, and a large basketful of broken bread was resting on a shelf. There was also a broken sink in the corner. Connected with this room is a narrow closet containing rubbish and sweepings, and adjoining it on the Market Space side is another small room containing the padded cell, a stretcher and a couple of iron cots. The coverlids to the cots looked as though they had been used in the revolutionary war as horse blankets. The floor was dirty and black, and the walls and ceiling were discolored.

Across the hall is the turnkey's room, where the police blotter is kept, and where prisoners are searched when brought in. There is a high counter here covered with Noah's ark oil cloth, and extending half way across the room. In one corner is a sweet little alcove containing a desk of the Louis XIV style. In the course of its official service this desk has collectively held more disease-breeding truck taken from disease-breeding prisoners than you could shake a stick at, and it is good for several years more if the perfume in the room doesn't petrify it.

A narrow passageway leads from this room to the cells, or prison proper. The odor coming from the cells isn't quite as bad as might be expected from its surroundings, but still it is sufficiently rancorous.

A large square room on the same floor is used for lodging tramps and other wanderers who they apply for shelter. The floor is bare, and some of the boards have warped so that the dirt is forced out of its ridges whenever anyone steps on them.

The stone-paved court in the center of the building is anything but picturesque. Several feet of wet hose, an old coat and a half dozen mops were hanging on pegs in the wall, an in one corner was a sawdust-packed box filled with ice and melons. The walls of the court were whitewashed before the war, but since then they have been paddling their own canoe without any further embellishment. The engine-room adjoining the court is comparatively clean, although rather musty and very dingy. Next to the engine-room is the patrol barn. A strong, very disagreeable and sometimes sickening odor prevails in the hallways and every room in the basement, but as the health officer is on the third floor there is no danger to the officers of that department.

The second floor is a great improvement on the first, but is not what it should be. In the hall leading to the police clerk's office is a musty old lounge and an ancient looking wardrobe or cupboard. The floor is covered with a torn and ragged oil-cloth, and the zinc caps on the edge of the steps leading from the hall to the office are patched, broken and jagged. In one corner a room has been partitioned off and in this are stored old books and papers.

The rooms on the third floor where the patrolmen have their lockers, and where they assemble before going on duty, is also in bad condition. The floors are dirty and the walls defaced by the marks of time. The upper portion of the building on the whole, however, is practically clean compared with the basement. There is room for a great many improvements, and those now contemplated cannot be made any too soon. There really should be a new station house. The present one is in such bad shape that nothing but complete annihilation can remedy existing evils.

BIG MINING SCHEME.

Machinery for the Cincinnati Plant.

The Carnegie Company Has Ordered 500,000 Tons of Ore Yearly.

Duluth, Minn., Sept. 21.—The Standard Ore company, in which are interested the magnates of the Standard Oil and other corporations, notably the builders of the American Steel Barge company, builders of the whaleback vessels, has just received a lot of mining machinery for the Cincinnati mine on the Mesaba range.

The ore company has leased the Cincinnati mine and will remove a minimum of about 200,000 tons of Bessemer ore yearly.

It is stated by the directors that the Carnegie Steel company has purchased the entire output of the mine for a term of years. Altogether the Carnegie company has contracted for the annual delivery of over 500.0000 tons yearly from this region. The Cincinnati will be operated by underground mining, and several working shafts are already in the ore. The Biwabic, whose ore body is merely a continuation of the Cincinnati, is said to have the greatest amount of ore in sight that has ever been produced from a single mine—20,000,000 tons.

NORTH BALTIMORE.

The Fair Promises to be a Great Success.

A Great Display of Goods and Many People Present to See Them.

North Baltimore, O., Sept. 21.—(Special)—To see North Baltimore as she appears the first day of the fair, she looks as though she had been turned into the street.

Main street, for blocks, is lined with booths and platforms, which are rapidly being transformed into miniature models of the stores in front of which they stand. Everything is being utilized, the unfinished buildings being used for art halls and exhibits that cannot be shown to good advantage except under cover.

The weather is perfect, and the crowd all that could be expected on the first day. Following is the program for the week:

Sept. 21—Business men's parade at 1 o'clock; slow race by mules; fat men's race; bicycle race by ladies; wheelbarrow race (backward); display of water works at 3 o'clock, a grand sight.

Sept. 22—Grand military drill at 3 o'clock; sham battle at 4; pony race; wheelbarrow race; bicycle race; ox race (in carts, driven by two ladies); foot race (100 yards); high kick.

Sept. 23—Business men's parade at 1 o'clock; five minute race, contested by any one, horseback or foot; fox chase with 22 blooded hounds; oxen race, ridden by two gentlemen—one-half mile; three standing jumps.

A team attached to a large wagon load of furniture belonging to the North Baltimore Furniture company ran away, smashing things up badly. This same team ran away Monday with a load of furniture. No one was hurt at either time.

The fakirs are on every corner.

IN SIXTY DAYS

Natural Gas Will be Pumped Into Toledo.

The Trustees Decide to Invest $25,000 in the Pittsburg Apparatus—More New Wells.

"We expect to be pumping gas into the city within 60 days," Gas Trustee Reynold Voit said to a Bee last evening.

There was practically but one bid entered, and that from the Hall Steam Pump company, of Pittsburg.

As given in the bids published yesterday in the Bee, this firm makes two propositions.

First—A complete pumping plant, seven boilers and three pumps, placed in position, duly connected and fully equipped, for $27,000.

Second—Same, five boilers and two pumps, a complete apparatus, $25,000.

One or the other of these will be accepted at an adjourned meeting of the trustees to be held this afternoon, unless the trustees change their minds.

The plant is the same as that inspected by the committee at Pittsburg last winter, and embraces what is known as the Pew patent.

The company guarantees to have the plant in operation in 60 days, so that by December 1 Toledo may be expecting a supply of gas through the medium of pumps.

The bid includes two iron buildings, one as a boiler room and another for the pumping station.

It also includes a water pump, water being a prime necessity in cooling the cylinders, which become very hot from the latent heat in the compressed gas.

The board, it is understood, will need an increased supply of gas, and with a view of meeting the emergency new wells are to be purchased with the surplus that will remain when the pumps are purchased.

Straus Bros., of Fostoria, had a bid for a complete outfit at $20,000.

The majority of the other bids were for only part of the work. It is believed that perhaps a cheaper combination bid can be selected, and if so that contract will be awarded.

A law passed in England in 1750 declared that at parties "ladies must not get drunk under any pretext whatever, and gentlemen not before 9 o'clock."

LIFE INSURANCE.

Grand Meeting Being Held in New York.

The Question of Insurance at the Chicago University—Business Program.

New York, Sept. 21.—Life insurance men from all over the country have been gathering in this city for the past few days to attend the annual convention of the National Association of Life Underwriters, which opened to-day.

The gatherings of the association are largely social affairs, although quite an extensive business program has been prepared for the present session.

The matter of endowing a chair of life insurance in the Chicago university, which was considered at the last annual meeting in Detroit, will probably be taken up.

The most important question to be acted upon, however, is the matter of guerilla solicitors, and it is probable that a war of extermination will be declared against them.

Instances were cited before the committee to-day where these disreputable agents had frightened and coerced policy holders in reliable companies to cancel their policies and take out new ones in the companies represented by the piratical brokers.

The committee will recommend that these gentry be handled without gloves, and that a system of boycotting in which their names will be furnished to all reputable companies be adopted to the end that they may be run out of business and exposed at every opportunity.

All the companies in the association will be asked to work together to blacklist these dishonest brokers.

SLY OLD JIM BLAINE.

He Says He Was Paired With a Democrat,

But He Omits One Customary Statement and Fails to Name the Democrat.

Augusta, Me., Sept. 21.—The following will appear in Wednesday morning's Kennebec Journal:

Bar Harbor, Sept. 19, 1892.

To the editor of the Kennebec Journal:

It has been stated by many journals that I did not vote at the late election. My voting place is Augusta. It would have taken three days' time and 250 miles of travel to go there, register, and vote. Instead of doing that a democratic friend 'paired off' with me, and I thus saved my vote and a good deal of time, too. Very respectfully, JAMES G. BLAINE.

WEDDING BELLS.

They Ring Out Merrily in Napoleon.

Two Happy Couples Start Out on the Sea of Matrimonial Life.

Napoleon, Sept. 21.—(Special)—Social circles were much interested in two events yesterday—the marriages of Mr. C. M. Bryant and Miss Mary Jones, and Mr. Stephen Bissonett and Miss Annie Burns.

The first was performed at the residence of the bride's parents on Washington street at 3 o'clock p. m. The ceremony was conducted by Rev. Bollmer in the presence of a few invited guests. The happy pair left on the evening train for Washington where they will attend the G. A. R. encampment. From there they will go to Old Point Comfort in Virginia, returning home some time in October. They will immediately go to housekeeping on their return.

The nuptials of the second named couple took place at St. Augustine's church at 9 o'clock a. m., by the Rev. Father Purtz. The large church was filled with friends and relatives and the ceremony was of that impressive nature characteristic of the Catholic church.

After the ceremony the bridal party repaired to the home of T. J. Burns, brother of the bride, and enjoyed the bridal dinner.

The newly married pair will at once settle down to the realities of life in their elegant home on Clinton street.

Both couples are of our most prominent young people and the friends who wish them a long life of happiness are legion.

THE SAULT SAINTE MARIE.

Some Interesting Facts About Our Ship Canal in Michigan.

This is a story of the Sault Sainte Marie canal. There is a confusion in the public mind as to names in that vicinity. From Lake Michigan to Lake Huron there is an easy passage through the Straits of Mackinac, and all in American territory; but from Lake Superior to Lake Huron is a long and very tortuous passage, interrupted by rapids and forming the international boundary between Canada and the upper peninsula of Michigan. This passage bears the general name of St. Mary's river, or strait, and is considered 63 miles long, measured from the head of Tequamenon bay, on Lake Superior, to the head of Drummond island, in Lake Huron.

Now as Lake Superior is 630 feet above the sea and Lake Huron 575 feet, the result is obvious—rapids in the connecting river. These are known as St. Mary's Falls, or the Sault de Sainte Mary. In three-quarters of a mile the fall is 22 feet; below that the strait spreads into so broad a river that its current is no obstacle to the largest vessels. To circumvent these rapids was the problem for engineers. The big bend of the strait is toward the north, that is, toward the Canadian side, making the cross cut short on the American side, but in running the boundary the large island of St. Joseph at the lower end of the strait was given to Canada.

In 1840 congress provided for the preliminary survey. In 1852 a grant of 750,000 acres of land was made to Michigan, out of the proceeds of which the canal construction was to be paid for, as it was all in the one state. In 1853 work on the canal was begun, and though more than half of it had to be cut through solid rock, it was completed May 19, 1855, and vessels locked through it successfully. The canal is one and one-third miles long, the width of the lock is 80 feet and its length 515 feet. The commerce grew so rapidly that the work was surrendered to the general government in 1881 and a new lock begun, which will be 800 feet long and 100 feet wide, with a depth of 21 feet of water over the miter sill.

It is a surprise to learn that one-eighth of the water commerce of the United States passes through this canal. Its tonnage far exceeds that of the Suez canal, and last May 1,728 vessels passed through it, or more than two for every hour of the day or night. When completed the new lock will have cost about $5,000,000, and the canal will then be the greatest ship canal in the world. Though the lake shipping has grown to such proportions, it is still in its infancy, so to speak, as the ideal freight route from the new northwest is through the lakes to Buffalo and thence by rail to New York.

FIXED TO SUIT HIM.

The Welcome Home of the Man Who Had Been Rusticating.

He was a bank cashier and he had been at the Thousand Isles for his vacation. His wife, of course, had staid at home. She would have had to, anyway, for the baby had the measles. She stood just now with a pleased light in her eye and a smile on her face reading his letter.

"I shall be home on Wednesday morning, dear," it said. "Please fix up my room the way I like for me, as only such a model little wife as yourself can do."

"Dear John," she murmured sweetly, "what confidence he has in me. I'll go and fix up his room for him right away." And she tripped lightly upstairs, still smiling, says the Detroit Free Press.

On Wednesday morning he came home and bounded blithely upstairs with all the spirit of youth and faith. He opened the door of his room and looked in.

A soiled shirt lay in the middle of the floor, a pair of suspenders hung over the mirror, the bed had been dragged out of place and was piled full of old shoes, socks vests and other masculine attire. A bottle of ink had been spilled on the dressing-case, a razor lay on the window sill. Half-smoked cigars lay on some costly books, and cards and empty wine bottles were scattered around.

Half dazed he walked feebly across the floor and, taking a note from the dresser, read:

Dear John: I was so glad to get your letter, and I have followed your instructions to the dot. I was sure you would like your room to have its old familiar look, so I have arranged things just as you always do yourself, dear, knowing how it would please you. I have gone into the country to spend the day with mother. Affectionately, EMMA.

P. S.—There is some cold pie in the cupboard, dear.

John I. Blair, of Blairsville, N. J., is reported to be worth all the way from $50,000,000 to $100,000,000. He has never sold a share of stock in any enterprise with which he has been associated, and has money invested in scores of railroads, some of which he absolutely controls.

NEVADA.

Democrats Filling Out the State Ticket.

Carson, Nev., Sept. 21.—The state committee representing the populist wing of the democratic party met here this afternoon, and will complete the work which was interrupted by the withdrawal of the Cleveland men from the convention held here a week ago.

The dispute in the former meeting arose over the question of nominating an electoral ticket, the Weaver men favoring the indorsement of the people's party electors.

The latter were in the majority, and the Clevelandites withdrew and nominated a ticket of their own. The convention today will complete a state ticket, and declare Weaver and Field their candidates for the presidency and vice-presidency.

PRESBYTERIANS.

Toronto, Ont., Sept. 21.—The Pan-Presbyterian conference convened in this city to-day with a large attendance. Many questions of importance to the church, both in America and Europe, will be discussed. Special attention will be given to the question of disestablishment in England. Among the prominent delegates are Rev. Matthew Leich, D. D.; Rev. George McFarland, Rev. William Park, and Rev. R. B. Wylie, LL. D., of Coleraine, Ireland.

Pimples AND Blotches

ARE EVIDENCE That the blood is wrong, and that nature is endeavoring to throw off the impurities. Nothing is so beneficial in assisting nature as Swift's Specific (S. S. S.) It is a simple vegetable compound. Is harmless to the most delicate child, yet it forces the poison to the surface and eliminates it from the blood.

I contracted a severe case of blood poison that unsettled me for business for four years. A few bottles of Swift's Specific (S. S. S.) cured me. J. C. JONES, City Marshal, Fulton, Arkansas.

DYSPEPSIA.

DR. RADWAY'S PILLS are a cure for this complaint. They restore strength to the stomach and enable it to perform its functions. The symptoms of Dyspepsia disappear, and with them the liability of the system to contract diseases. Take the medicine according to the directions and observe what we say in "False and True" respecting diet.

Observe the following symptoms resulting from diseases of the digestive organs: Constipation, inward piles, fullness of blood in the head, acidity of the stomach, nausea, heartburn, disgust of food, fullness or weight of the stomach, sour eructations, sinking or fluttering of the heart, choking or suffocating sensation when in a lying posture, dimness of vision, dots or webs before the sight, fever and dull pain in the head, deficiency of perspiration, yellowness of the skin and eyes, pain in the side, chest, limbs and sudden flashes of heat, burning in the skin.

A few doses of RADWAY'S PILLS will free the system of all the above-named disorders.

Send a letter stamp to DR. RADWAY & CO., No. 32 Warren Street, New York, for "False and True."

Heiskell's Ointment

Is a positive cure for all forms of

SKIN DISEASE.

We base this assertion on our observation of over thirty years, in which time a very large number and variety of Skin Diseases have been reported to us as cured, by the simple use of Heiskell's Ointment, without the aid of internal remedies. Many of these were cases of long duration, that had resisted the treatment of the most eminent medical talent in this and other countries. Heiskell's Ointment seems never to have failed in a single instance.

EVICTION OF TENANTS.

Renewed Excitement in Dublin—Landlords Trying to Discredit Home Rule—Kenny's View.

Dublin, Sept. 21.—There is renewed excitement everywhere in Dublin in consequence of the resumption of the eviction of tenants who are in arrears for rent.

In County Clare the sheriff proceeded Monday, with a large force of police, to Collready to dispossess the delinquent tenants, but instead of the resistance expected, the tenant was ready to pay his back rent. At the next house the sheriff found the same condition of affairs. The result of the raid was that the rents were paid and none of the tenants were evicted.

Many of the tenants on the estate of Lord Ely in County Fermanagh and County Wexford and on the estates of Lord Templemore in County Wexford are in arrears and preparations are being made for evictions. None of the tenants on these estates have been dispossessed in four years, and trouble is anticipated when the writs are served.

Saturday last a family named O'Gorman, living in one of the west of Ireland counties, was evicted. Bridget O'Gorman, a daughter of the family, had in her possession a ticket for the United States which had been sent to her by her sister in America. This was seized by the sheriff, who holds it as security for the law costs incurred by the landlord.

The Freeman's Journal (anti-Parnellite) declares that the evictions are the result of the landlords' desire to discredit the home rule government.

At the regular meeting of the National league in this city an address was delivered by Joseph Kenny, Parnellite member of parliament. He agreed with Mr. O'Brien that the landlords would do their best to provoke disturbance by evictions, but he contended that the liberals were responsible for the evictions, as the landlords had taken heart because the government had refused to hold an autumn session of parliament.

CHARLEY REED DEAD.

Advance Agent for Forpaugh's Circus Expires Under Peculiar Circumstances.

New York, Sept. 21.—Charles Reed, for many years advance agent for Forepaugh's circus, died under circumstances which call for an investigation by the coroner. He came home Monday and complained of pains in the head. His wife made him some hot lemonade and he went to bed. Tuesday morning Mrs. Reed awoke her sister-in-law, who lived with them, and told her Mr. Reed was dead. Before Miss Reed recovered from the shock the wife had called an undertaker, who embalmed the body. Then she sent a dispatch to James Jourdan, with Forepaugh's circus at Sunbury, Pa., asking for a loan of $50, saying she would return it Monday. This message, the police suspect, has a double meaning.

Jacob Reed, a friend of the deceased, said that Reed and his wife had not lived happily together. Dr. Irving D. Hitchcock, who gave a certificate to the effect that Reed had died from heart failure, said that he had been attending the agent for several months.

Six years ago Reed was married to a young woman who was employed as a chariot rider with Forepaugh's circus. The couple lived happily together until the agent discovered that his wife was very friendly with James Jourdan, one of the ticket takers. This led to a separation, but through the efforts of his sister there was a reconciliation between Reed and his wife and they went to live together again. Having saved up $1,500 he deposited the money in his wife's name. Recently the old trouble between the pair broke out anew and it was decided that they were to separate forever.

The police do not wish to take any hasty action in the matter, fearing that the death certificate may prove to be correct, and are awaiting the result of the autopsy.

RED HANDED ANARCHY.

It Will Show Itself Again in Paris.

The Country's Anniversary Liable to Be Marred by Riotous Actions.

Paris, Sept. 21.—The anarchists are preparing a program of their own for the celebration to-morrow of the hundredth anniversary of the proclamation of the French republic by the national convention.

They have posted the program of their proposed anarchistic celebration over the official programs for the fetes of to-morrow. The anarchists take occasion to refer in their programs to the massacre at Fourmies and evidently mean to make things as disagreeable as possible for the authorities. They also allude in their posters to the fete of the Chicago anarchists and use language which can be construed only as inviting a social war.

Prince Victor Bonaper has also issued a manifesto in which he declares that September 22 is inseparably associated with the achievements and services of the Bonapact dynasty, and he adds: "In observing the day you affirm this." The manifesto is addressed to the committee for the procurement of a plebiscite, or popular decision as to the form of government France should have, formed with the object of restoring imperial rule. These committees last evening voted an address in reply to the prince.

Messrs. C. C. and Frank Hrsg have completed the erection of an addition to their cafe at the corner of Cherry street and Canton avenue. The buildings will be enlarged so as to face on both streets and billiards and pool will be a feature of the new place. The Seventh ward is growing rapidly as is evidenced by this metropolitan move.

The costliest paintings of modern times are Meissonier's "1814" and Millet's "The Angelus." M. Chauchard gave 850,000 francs ($170,000) for "1814" and 750,000 francs ($150,000 for "The Angelus."

A LINK IN THE CHAIN.

Sensational Disclosures Concerning Lizzie Borden.

A Lawyer Says She Consulted Him in Regard to Disposition of Her Father's Property.

Fall River, Mass., Sept. 21.—The Globe publishes an array of facts bearing on the Borden case, of which the following is a summary:

The state is ready to prove that six months before the murders Lizzie Borden went to Providence by way of New Bedford and there consulted with a lawyer as to the possible disposition of her father's property in the event of his death, and more particularly as to its disposition as affecting her. This man is one of the best known lawyers in Rhode Island and has held several political offices. He obtained all of the information that she could give him about a suppositious case and then asked her where she lived. When she said Fall River, he told her he would not be able to give her an answer at once, but that if she would call upon him later he would have looked up the Massachusetts law and would be able to advise her. Two weeks before the murder she again went Providence via New Bedford and received all the information the lawyer could give her. Then she went to several stores in Providence and made purchases, directing that they be shipped to her home. The police are in possession of a shipping tag showing that Miss Borden was in Providence on the day indicated. When the story of the murders was published the lawyer recalled his client of two weeks previous.

A man who saw Miss Borden sitting in the lawyer's waiting room gave information of her wanderings to the police. Every effort was made to get the professional man to this city and identify the girl. On the last day of the preliminary hearing he was in the district court room and stood face to face with the prisoner. The recognition was mutual and the lawyer determined then to go on the witness stand and testify to the interviews when the proper time arrived.

These facts are construed to mean that the state has another clew as to the motive for the crime.

JOYS OF LIFE IN THE COUNTRY

Not Just Exactly as They Have Been Pictured.

A New York gentleman, who had not been out of the city, met a friend whom he had not seen in some time.

"Have you been sick?"

"No, of course not. I have just returned from my vacation in the country."

"You must have had a nice time. You look as if you had had mosquitoes three times a day."

"Oh, yes, we had them regularly."

"I suppose you had lots of fresh butter and eggs while you were in the country."

"The butter was strong enough to resent an insult, but as we didn't have much else to eat it went very well with the petrified ears of corn. As we did not bring any diamond drills with us, we gave up the idea of partaking of the spring chicken."

"How did you like the coffee you got in the country?"

"It was like the quality of mercy Shakespeare speaks of—it was not strained."

"Didn't you get nice light rolls for breakfast?"

"We had rolls, but I didn't eat any. I read once that a spider eats four times his weight for breakfast. As I did not desire to enter into competition with this spider, I didn't eat any rolls. Besides, the cockroaches were versatile in the farmhouse where I was boarding. They appeared, like actors, in different rolls every day."

"I suppose the farmhouse where you stopped was crowded with guests?"

"It was crowded, but not with guests; however, I could have stood the other annoyances if I had only got something to eat occasionally. I tell you, a man never knows what a vast amount of wear and tear his stomach will go through until he has been put in the country for a week or so to recuperate. I lost 25 pounds. I'm on my way to the doctor's to get a tonic that will build up my system."—Texas Siftings.

SOUVENIR CARDS.

A Deck of Cards That Can Not Be Duplicated Anywhere.

"Many people have peculiar 'fads,' but one of the strangest I ever heard of was brought to my notice at the house of a friend a few evenings ago," said T. X. Rixon last night. "I formed one of a small dinner party, and after the coffee had been served the four men in the party adjourned to the library to enjoy a cigar and a game or two of whist.

"When my host produced the pasteboards I noticed that the design on the back of no two cards was alike and that the colors also varied. On being dealt my hand I also found that on the face of every card was written the name of some street and a date, and in every instance those were different. When taking leave of my host that night I asked him about it.

"'That pack of cards,' he said, can not be matched in this city. It is a wonder. Beside, it was very cheap, not having cost me a cent, as every card in it I picked up in the street.

"'One night, seven years ago, when walking along Park row, I saw a playing card lying on the sidewalk, and a sudden thought struck me. Why not try to get an entire deck in that way, marking each card with the place where it was found, the time and date. I started my strange search and persevered, and you have seen the result to-night.

"'The first year I got forty cards. During the next two years I brought the number up to fifty, but it was not until a few months ago I found the ace and jack of spades I needed to complete the deck.'"—New York Advertiser.

THE WHITE HOUSE.

Strolling down East Seventh street the other day the attention of the writer was attracted to a picture which had been placed in the show window of one of the leading clothing stores on that thoroughfare. It was a large-sized photograph of the White House in Washington. Attached to the picture was a card on which were inscribed the words: "Where every St. Paul boy expects to live some day."

A well-known business man of this city stopped before the picture, and was viewing it with a curious eye. Close beside him stood a young boy, raggedly dressed, a veritable street Arab. The youngster scrutinized the picture closely, and then slowly, with a puzzled expression on his face, spelled out the inscription. Then he suddenly turned to the gentleman by his side, and, pointing a finger at the picture, startled him with the question: "Say, mister, what is that? Is that the Ref?" (Reform school.)—St. Paul Globe.

THE TRUE LAXATIVE PRINCIPLE

Of the plants used in manufacturing the pleasant remedy, Syrup of Figs, has a permanently beneficial effect on the human system, while the cheap vegetable extracts and mineral solutions, usually sold as medicines, are permanently injurious. Being well-informed, you will use the true remedy only. Manufactured by the California Fig Syrup Co.

MARIE'S TACT.

There was a little scene in a Wabash avenue cable car yesterday that would have made a picture after Du Maurier's heart. A young girl inclining to plumpness got in, and greeted with effusiveness a widow concerning whose figure roly-poly seemed the only applicable adjective. The widow glanced at her young friend, and said politely:

"Why, Marie, how well you are looking! The mountains must have agreed with you. You are positively plump as a partridge."

To which Marie tactfully replied in tones of horror:

"Oh, don't tell me that! If there is anything I dread becoming it's a fat woman!"

After a few minutes silent and salutary reflection Marie remembered a neglected errand and got off the car.—Chicago Times.

HEALTH IN OLD AGE.

Edward Collinson, Queens, N. Y., says: "I commenced using Brandreth's Pills over fifty-five years ago. I first bought them in London, and have continued using them since I came to this country in 1836. I am now over 75 years old, hale and hearty, and attribute my wonderful health to the persistent use of Brandreth's Pills. Occasionally I have a bad cold or severe attack of rheumatism, indigestion or biliousness, but four or five doses of Brandreth's Pills always cure me. Whenever my children have been sick with scarlet fever, measles, acid stomach, disordered digestion or costiveness, a few doses of Brandreth's Pills restored their health at once."

THE REASONABLE SOLUTION.

Mabel—He is such a delightful fellow; but the trouble is, we don't know whether he is married or single.

Her cousin Tom—Is he very attentive?—willing to come or go—anxious to obey your lightest wish?

Mabel—Yes, he is.

Her cousin Tom—Courageous in telling you how lovely you are, and what an influence such a woman would have over a man's life? Ready, in fact, to prostrate himself at your feet?

Mabel—That just expresses it.

Her cousin—Then he's married!—Life.

AMERICAN IMPROVEMENTS.

The world has been using the ax since pre-historic times, but it remained for the American pioneer to fashion the ideal ax-handle, at once light, strong and elastic. The ax such as is familiar to all Americans is rare in Europe, and it sells in all British colonies as the American ax.

Beecham's Pills cures Sick-Headache.

MILK FOR CONSUMPTIVES.

The Russians and consumptives in America and Europe use mares' and asses' milk, because of all milks it is freest from butter fats. As is well known, the Russian drink, koumiss, is made from mares' milk, as is also another drink, which is intoxicating.

Sufferers from dyspepsia have only themselves to blame if they fail to test the wonderful curative qualities of Ayer's Sarsaparilla. In purifying the blood, this medicine strengthens every organ of the body, and even the most abused stomach is soon restored to healthy action.

SCROFULOUS SORES.

Lady Badly Afflicted Three Years. Tries Many Doctors Here and in England Without Benefit. Cured by Cuticura.

My wife having suffered from scrofula sores on her back for three years, and at times she could not lie down at night, and she tried all the doctors I could get, and also went to England to try and be cured there, and all of them failed, and told her they could do nothing for her; and having tried all kinds of remedies I at last tried one box of your CUTICURA REMEDIES, and to-day she is as well as she ever was in her life, and her back is as clear as any person living, and I for one can recommend CUTICURA REMEDIES as the only one I could find to effect a cure.

Scrofula Ten Years

I had a running sore in my ear of a scrofula nature for ten years. Had been treated by several physicians, but obtained no relief until I tried CUTICURA, which healed it up in a few days. This was more than three years ago, and I have had no trouble with it since. I consider your CUTICURA REMEDIES unexcelled for the diseases you claim to cure.

WHAT GIRLS DISLIKE.

Half a Dozen Instances Where They Express Themselves.

I asked a half dozen of bright girls to-day what they most disliked in man, says Ella Wheeler Wilcox.

Said No. 1:

"I dislike to have him make apologies for his dress. A man should never speak of his clothes to a lady."

Said No. 2:

"I dislike to have a man agree with me in everything I say and never offer an amendment."

Said No. 4:

"I dislike a man who talks on one subject until he exhausts it and me. I want him to change the topic before I am tired of it."

Said No. 5:

"I loathe a man who is afraid of drafts, and who is forever fussing about doors and windows, irrespective of other people's comfort."

Said No. 6:

"I detest a cynical man who has no faith in human nature or motives, and who is always talking pessimism."

So now, my dear boys, put this in your pipe and smoke it!

AN UNWELCOME GIFT.

The constantly growing list of curious bequests has received an addition from Ireland. A lady named Ellen Blair has left the bulk of her estate, amounting to the not very munificent sum of £753 14s 6d, towards the building of a church for the Protestants of the Church of Ireland "in one of the most benighted, impoverished and ignorant district in Ireland." Left to choose a district fulfilling all these qualifications, it is not surprising that the executors under the will have renounced probate. More bold than the executors, however, the Commissioners of Charitable Donations and Bequests for Ireland have obtained letters of administration, and a case has been referred to the vice-chancellor's chambers to settle a scheme for the application of the bequest. Happily, a corporation has no soul to be saved or body to be kicked. No private individual dare dump down a church which should proclaim the neighborhood to be "the most benighted, impoverished and ignorant."—Pall Mall Budget.

A ZIGZAG RAILWAY.

There are few more interesting engineering achievements than the little narrow gauge railroad running to Caracas, the capital of Venezuela, from its seaport, La Guayra. The distance between the two cities as the crow flies—supposing for the moment that he could fly through mountains—is only six miles; but the railway connecting them is 23 miles in length, and constantly twists and turns on itself.

The road runs in zigzag fashion up the mountain to an altitude of about 5,000 feet above its starting point and then descends some 1,500 feet in the same manner into the valley of Caracas.

Twenty-two thousand rails were used in laying the track, and of these over 18,000 are bent. It is jestingly said that the engineer almost died of a broken heart because he could invent no excuse for bending the remaining 4,000. He did his best, however, and no one who has to ride over the line and finds himself shaken at every one of the 340 sharp twists which the track makes will find it in his heart to condemn the poor man for not making a perfect job.

Two passenger trains pass over the road daily, leaving La Guayra at 8:30 in the morning and at 3:30 in the afternoon, making the journey in two and a half hours. This is a speed, exclusive of stops, of not quite ten miles an hour.—Pearson's Weekly.

Big men seem to abound more or less in all callings, but in one art in this country there is a man who seems not to have a peer. That man is Clark, the maker of great telescope glasses. The senior is dead, the elder son is dead, and the younger is 55 or 60 years old. So Prof. Todd, of Amherst college, suggests that if the biggest telescope of all is to be made somebody better give Clark the order before it is too late. Prof. Todd discourages investment for great glasses for government use. He argues that more devoted use would be made of them by college explorers in celestial fields. He thinks the twenty-six-inch glass at Washington large enough for its location and use. The Lick glass is a thirty-six inch. Prof. Todd says that if Clark could get the necessary glass discs he would take a contract to make a four-foot or five-foot telescope in two or three years, probably for $125,000 to $160,000.

Perhaps the happiest time in George William Curtis' life as a literary man were those nights and days which he spent with Thackeray in the early 50's. When Thackeray came to this country he brought with him a great many letters of introduction. Some he presented, others he kept. But of all the men whom he met perhaps the closest intimacy was developed with Mr. Curtis, Parke Goodwin, and the elder Wallack. Thackeray used to make a sort of headquarters at the editorial rooms of Putnam's Magazine, and when he came in there and found both Curtis and Parke Goodwin there very little work was done for the rest of the day. Mr. Curtis helped Thackeray gather some of the material for "The Virginians," and it is very likely that his executors will find in his correspondence some of these exquisite whimsical letters of Thackeray which Mr. Curtis used with delight now and then to show to those whom he could trust.
